England's Plan To Force Issue On Panama Canal Rulings Discussed. With Which To Make Formal Protest To The Recent Law Enacted By Last Session Of Congress.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 3.—No less than three separate and distinct "lines of action" are open to the British government dealing with the problem raised by the passing of the Panama Canal toll act.

It is assumed here that because there are more than one available avenue for British shipping to seek relief the British foreign office has said the notice of an appeal for arbitration was premature.

President Taft has indicated one method by which the problem may be attacked. Congress however, did not think well of the suggestion.

That was to include in the act a paragraph giving jurisdiction to American courts to pass upon whether the act constituted a discrimination against British shipping in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

Another means of dealing with the British grievance would be to allow any British ship owner to test under existing law before any United States court his right to use the canal under the treaty on terms of equality with American ship owners.

Chairman Adams of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce and many senators and other representatives have declared that if British rights have been infringed there already was a remedy in the statutes.

The last avenue in relief through arbitration although many publicists have held that owing to changes of sovereignty over the canal zone, and other events developed since the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, Great Britain has no actual right to demand an arbitration.

As the canal cannot be opened for a year and a half there will be ample time for the British foreign office to elect which method of relief shall be employed.

ENGLAND WILL NOT SEEK ARBITRATION

Statement From British Foreign Office Declares Panama Canal Case "Will Not Be Protested."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Sept. 3.—A complete disavowal is given this morning by the British foreign office of the alleged official announcement that the British government will formally demand arbitration on the Panama Canal toll question.

"The line of action which lies before the British government is not being considered and any announcement of any kind is premature." This is the full text of the formal statement given out by the foreign office today in reply to the request for details as to the reported demand for arbitration.

In regard to the publication of the report to the officials of the foreign office said no announcement of any sort had been made nor even decided on by the British government. The statement purporting to be official was issued by the Press Association and the Central News, two of the leading news agencies. It appeared at an hour when it was too late to obtain independent confirmation or denial and all the London newspapers printed it this morning as a fact. Instead of being the case however, the Panama canal question remains in the same position it has occupied for some time.

NOTE IMPROVEMENT MADE IN NICARAGUA

Believed That Navy Will Soon Have Situation Well in Hand As Concerns Restoring Communication.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 3.—A decided improvement in conditions in Nicaragua was indicated by cablegrams to the navy department today from Rear Admiral Sutherland. It is believed the navy soon will have the situation well in hand as far as the control of lines of communication between Managua and Corinto is concerned. Admiral Sutherland makes no mention of the reported killing of two marines by federalists at Managua.

Dispatches from Minister Weitzel report conditions growing worse in the vicinity of Granada. The minister's dispatch confirms press reports of suffering of the people practically without food supplies. Unless the government forces sent to the relief of Matagalpa have been defeated or checked it is probable that a large foreign colony in that vicinity which so strongly appealed for help has already been relieved. Practically all the bridges between Corinto and the town of Nogarote, 18 miles from the capital have been destroyed.

FOND DU LAC PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE BISHOP GRAFTON.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Fond du Lac, Sept. 3.—The funeral of Bishop Charles Clement Grafton, Protestant Episcopal church was held from St. Paul's Cathedral today. The mayor and common council, all the clergy of the diocese, representatives of the Fond du Lac county bar, the business men's association and a large concourse of friends packed the cathedral.

MAKES A REPORT ON RULES OF FOREIGN COTTON EXCHANGES

Commissioner Declares False Standard Governing Tar on Cotton Exports Cause Uncertainty in Sales.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Sept. 3.—Rules of foreign cotton exchanges, governing tar on cotton exported from the United States have created a false standard of weights which inject uncertainty into practically every American cotton sale in the important markets of Europe, resulting in serious abuses, indefensible practices, and even fraud on the part of cotton merchants in this country, according to Luther, Jr., Commissioner of Corporation in a report to President Taft, made public today.

The report is based upon an extensive investigation of cotton trade—the allowance for bagging and ties enclosing a bale of cotton in order to ascertain the net weight—which was undertaken on complaint that American cotton producers were subjected to serious loss because of excessive deductions for tare under the regulations of leading European markets. The producer does not ordinarily suffer under these rules, according to the Commissioner, because of the active competition among merchants in the purchase of cotton from the farmer for export. The existence of competition and its remedial effect, however, he points out, cannot always be relied upon, and it is impossible to escape the conclusion that the producer may be injured and sometimes is.

The tare rules, the report declares, complicate price calculations with an unnecessary element of chance and involve economic waste because of the use of excessive bagging. If this waste does not injure the producer, or merchant or spinner, it must impose an unnecessary burden upon the consumer of cotton goods, says the report. Commissioner Connant declares that immediate action should be taken to remedy the evils and offers suggestions for temporary and ultimate permanent relief. The American producer sells his cotton gross weight and as a rule, according to the report, by deducting 3 percent from the gross weight. The average bale of cotton, weighing 500 pounds gross, contains about 475 pounds of cotton and 25 pounds of tare as it comes from the producer to the exporter. A deduction of 6 percent, under the foreign tare rules from a gross weight of 500 pounds, however would leave only 470 pounds net or 8 pounds less than the actual weight of the net cotton in the bale. In addition to that discrepancy, the report points out, the situation is further complicated by the fact that when the cotton reaches its destination, the foreign buyer, under the contract with the American exporter, has to pay for the net weight.

Cotton for export on the other hand is sold net weight. It is in this connection that complication and uncertainty are injected into cotton sales. The American exporter, by the terms of his invoice contract with the foreign buyer, must pay the net weight of his cotton by deducting 3 percent from the gross weight. The average bale of cotton, weighing 500 pounds gross, contains about 475 pounds of cotton and 25 pounds of tare as it comes from the producer to the exporter. A deduction of 6 percent, under the foreign tare rules from a gross weight of 500 pounds, however would leave only 470 pounds net or 8 pounds less than the actual weight of the net cotton in the bale. In addition to that discrepancy, the report points out, the situation is further complicated by the fact that when the cotton reaches its destination, the foreign buyer, under the contract with the American exporter, has to pay for the net weight.

OJINAGA CAPTURED BY MEXICAN REBELS

Take Possession of City Without Firing Single Shot—Federalists Flee—Americans in Danger.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Matla, Tex., Sept. 3.—Ojinaga was captured by rebels today without firing a shot. The federal forces commanded by Gen. Sanchez fled to the hills and a small garrison left behind failed to fight. With the capture of Ojinaga the rebels have obtained badly needed provisions, arms and ammunition.

Railway Bridges Burned. Mounted rebels dashed into the district of Cananea today, cut all the wires between here and Naco and burned three railroad bridges. When the news reached Cananea 200 men left to engage the rebels reported as numbering about 125 men.

Americans in Danger. Americans at Cananea are reported in danger from Mexican rebels and without sufficient arms and ammunition. A messenger from Dr. Rickerts to Gen. W. S. Schuyler said the Americans were in desperate straits. In a report to the war department today General Schuyler describes the situation along the border as critical.

DECREE MARTIAL LAW IN STRIKE DISTRICT

Move Precipitated By Destruction Of Railway Property By Coal Miners In West Virginia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 3.—Martial law was proclaimed in the strike affected district along Vacant and Cabin creeks today. The territory is a mountainous stretch of about twenty miles from Kanawha river to the La Fayette county line and about eight miles wide. The decisive move was precipitated by the destruction of railway property by the striking miners who tore up tracks in an attempt to stop the shipment of coal. There are more than 8,000 strikers all of whom are said to be armed with rifles.

ROSENTHAL MURDER EYE WITNESS HELD

Detectives in Liverpool Meet Thomas Coupe Who Arrived There From New York Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Sept. 3.—Thomas Coupe, who was met today by detectives at Liverpool, is one of the few actual eye witnesses to the murder of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal. He left New York last Tuesday on the Lusitania arriving at Liverpool today. When word of his departure reached District Attorney Whitman he said he feared this marked the beginning of an attempt to spirit away witnesses but he added that he had no legal way of detaining him. He had testified before the grand jury and had been counted on to take the stand at the trial of Becker and others charged with the Rosenthal murder.

On application of District Attorney Whitman the case of Police Lieutenant Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was transferred today from the court of general session to the criminal branch of the supreme court before Justice John W. Goff, sitting in extraordinary session.

Becker was arraigned before Justice Goff for pleading shortly before 11, but still refused to plead in his counsel's advice that the indictment had been "improperly and illegally found." By direction of Justice Goff a technical plea of not guilty was entered for the prisoner.

Counsel for Becker protested he was not ready to go to trial and insisted he needed a week at least for further preparation. Justice Goff quickly overruled four motions brought by Mr. McIntyre to obtain a delay and at Mr. Whitman's request set the trial for Sept. 12.

Aside from the arraignment of Becker, most interesting of the day's developments in the Rosenthal case on this side of the Atlantic was the discovery by the district attorney's office of two alleged refugees conducted by the so called "vice trust" and the report that a considerable sum of money belonging to Becker had been traced to Port Jervis, New York.

The refugees uncovered were said to be in a hotel in Hoboken, N. J., and four cottages at Centerville, Sullivan county, New York, where workers of the underworld might be sought as witnesses for the prosecution could bide their time until the storm blew over.

Refuses Statement. Liverpool, Sept. 3.—Thos. Coupe, formerly night clerk in the Elks club in New York city, an eye witness to the murder of gambler Herman Rosenthal, was met by detectives when the steamship Lusitania docked here today. He was not placed under arrest but was accompanied to a hotel where he refused to make any statement until he had consulted with friends.

"I am not going back to America," said Coupe today at the police station. The detectives informed the former night clerk of the New York Elks Club that District Attorney Whitman wanted him to return to America and testify as an eye witness to the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Afterwards Coupe proceeded to Preston about twenty-eight miles from this city, where his father has a large dry goods business.

DECIDING IN OHIO ON LATEST REFORMS

Such Measures as Referendum, Initiative and Woman's Suffrage Are Voted on Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 3.—The fate of four proposed amendments to the Ohio constitution is being decided today by the voters at a special election. By nightfall, the initiative, referendum, woman's suffrage, liquor license home rule, the change of judicial system and good roads, the proposed amendments will be realities or still will be undecided state issues before the voters of the state.

Because of the unusual length of the ballot with the 42 amendments and because each one had to be marked the voting is slow. Most of the voters require at least five minutes to mark the ballot and many consumed ten or fifteen minutes. Secretary of State Graves said today that the returns of the election would be slow in coming in and that the result in many of the important parts of the state would not be known until tomorrow. At best the probability is that the first returns will not be received until late tonight. Early voting in the larger cities is fairly heavy.

CHICAGO HOTEL GUEST KILLS HIMSELF TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Sept. 3.—H. H. Adams, thirty-five years old whose home was in Macon, Georgia, committed suicide at a downtown hotel early today by shooting himself in the right temple. Adams left a brief note asking that his father C. M. Adams, of Macon, Georgia, be notified.

SHEBOYGAN PLANS TO ENJOY RE-ASSESSMENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Sheboygan, Sept. 3.—Assemblyman Otto B. Joerns has applied to the state tax commission for a re-assessment of the city of Sheboygan. The city valuation is more than $15,000,000 and he says the assessment is not fair in proportion to other cities. The city valuation supervisor of assessments F. E. Donkison is back of the move. The railroad rate commission which recently handed down a decision cutting the gas rate has been asked for a rehearing and the date set for September 10. Socialists are the cause of the petition.

TAFT WILL ATTEND WATERWAYS MEETING

To Address Final Session of Convention at New London, Connecticut, Next Friday—Plans Proposed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New London, Conn., Sept. 3.—A notable gathering in the interest of waterway development will begin in this city tomorrow, when the Atlantic Deep Waterways Association will assemble for its fifth annual convention. President Taft has accepted an invitation to address the final session of the convention on Friday.

Congressman J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania will preside and the other notable speakers will include Governor Baldwin of Connecticut and Governor Mann of Virginia. The Atlantic Deep Waterways Association was formed in Philadelphia in 1907 for the purpose of agitating an inland waterway from Maine to Florida. The agitation resulted in the adoption of a definite project, the largest section of which has been surveyed by government engineers.

This section is recommended to Congress. This section extends from Boston across Cape Cod by canal to Buzzards Bay; to Long Island; to Narragansett Bay; across New Jersey by the New Jersey sea-level canal to the Delaware River; to Delaware Bay; to the Delaware and Chesapeake canal; to Chesapeake Bay, thence from Norfolk, Va., to Beaufort, N. C. over the Virginia-Carolina waterway.

The advantages of this inland waterway along the Atlantic coast, it is claimed, would be cheaper freight rates, less loss of life from marine disasters, and benefit to the navy in case of war.

SEEKS RANSOM FOR HIS CAPTIVE WIFE

Cuban Citizen Rides 100 Miles to El Paso to Secure Money to Free Young Wife.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

El Paso, Sept. 3.—After a hard ride of more than 100 miles, Alonso Fernandez Arquillas, a Cuban citizen, arrived here today in an effort to raise 2,000 pesos to free his young wife, who is held hostage by rebels at his home in Colonia Diaz, Arquillas called on Gen. Steever and appealed to Gen. Joaquin Tellez, commander of the Mexican federal forces about Juarez.

MELON DAY CELEBRATED AT CITY OF ROCKY FORD.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rocky Ford, Colo., Sept. 3.—Rocky Ford kept open house today and her visitors, to judge from the crowded streets, included nearly every man, woman and child in the entire Arkansas Valley. The visitors were royally entertained and each and every one was given his or her fill of the juicy watermelon and luscious cantaloupe for which Rocky Ford is famed the country over. It took something like 20,000 watermelons and 400 crates of cantaloupes to furnish the feast, but the good and hospitable people of this enterprising and prosperous city never do things by halves on "Melon Day." They have been practicing the "stunt" for nearly 25 years, and each succeeding year the carnival has assumed larger proportions and the attendance has been greatly increased.

NATIONAL TAX CONFERENCE OPENED AT DES MOINES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 3.—Delegates appointed by the governors of numerous states and the mayors of many cities throughout the country were present here today at the opening of the National Conference of State and Local Taxation. The conference will remain in session over tomorrow and Thursday.

NATIONAL MASTER BAKERS CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3.—The annual convention of the National Association of Master Bakers began in Louisville today with a large and representative attendance. The principal features of the opening session this morning were the address of welcome by Mayor Head and the response and annual address by President George F. Clarke of Jamestown, N. Y. A large exhibition of bakery machinery is being held in connection with the convention.

TANK OF BENZINE EXPLODES IN TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Sept. 3.—A large tank containing benzene exploded in the rear of a west side tailoring establishment today, burning one man to death and probably fatally injuring three others. The explosion wrecked the building which was quickly swept by fire.

KAREL'S FATHER-IN-LAW DIED IN LA CROSSE TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] La Crosse, Sept. 3.—John Gessler, father-in-law of Judge John C. Karel, of Milwaukee died at his home this morning he aged 65. Mr. Gessler was employed as brewmaster at the Heileman Brewing company for many years and was well known.

CITY OF LA CROSSE GIVEN PRINCELY GIFT BY CITIZEN.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] La Crosse, Sept. 3.—For the purpose of establishing a manual training school in connection with the high school here, Frank P. Hixon donated to the city the sum of $70,000. This is the largest gift ever made to the city for public purposes.

FORTY FATALITIES RESULT FROM FLOOD WHICH SWEEPED EAST

Fifteen Bodies Recovered From Debris Scattered Through Valley of Harmon's Creek, West Virginia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburgh, Sept. 3.—The number of fatalities resulting from the flood of Monday in western Pennsylvania, the panhandle of West Virginia, and Eastern Ohio, was increased to 40 today, when it became known that John Demastel, his wife and two children were missing from the ruins of their home on Charters Creek, near Canonsburg, Pa.

Fifteen bodies had been recovered from debris scattered throughout the valley of Harmon's Creek near Colliers, West Virginia, nine being residents of Colliers and six of Holiday Cove.

Searching parties are working in the valleys of the stricken district digging in the ruins of demolished houses in the hopes of finding bodies, but in many instances the rush of the water was so strong that it is believed the victims were carried far from the places where they met their deaths.

Flood in some places is scarce because railway communication has been cut off but caravans of loaded wagons are making their way over badly washed roads bearing needed supplies.

Sanitary offices of the western Pennsylvania towns are already at work and large forces of men are clearing streets and buildings.

VERMONT TO ELECT A GOVERNOR TODAY

Result of Election Viewed As Harbinger of Outcome of Presidential Election in November.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

White River Junction, Vt., Sept. 3.—Vermont is to elect a governor today and whichever party wins will accept the results as a harbinger of the success of the presidential contest in November. A three days' rain storm still was beating down on both sides of the Green Mountains of Vermont today when the voting began. Party leaders however, found some consolation in the prediction of clear weather by noon. The republicans maintained that there was sufficient party loyalty to elect Fletcher of Cavendish as governor in spite of the storm. The progressive managers relied on the steadfastness of the new movement to bring out a substantial vote for Reverend Frazier Metzger. Party leaders of the democrats were confident of polling the full party strength for Harlan Howe. Followers of the prohibitionists and socialist parties looked for the usual vote on the ticket for the leaders Clement F. Smith of the former and Fred W. Sayer for the latter.

SERIOUS RIOTS AT MICHIGAN PRISON

State Militia Has Been Called Out And Fire Department Summoned For Fires Convicts Started.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 3.—Rioting among convicts confined in jail pens has broken out and the men are now in the prison yard with the officials exerting every effort to keep them from going over the walls. The local companies of the state militia have been ordered to the prison at once, and it is said have orders to shoot the first prisoner who attempts to scale the walls. The fire department has been called to the scene, some fires having been started by the convicts.

WOOL MANUFACTURER ENTERED HIS PLEA

President of American Wool Company Pleaded Not Guilty to Conspiracy in Dynamite Plot.

Boston, Sept. 3.—William M. Wood, president of the American Wool Company pleaded not guilty in the Superior Court today to an indictment charging him with conspiring to distribute dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike in that city last winter.

The identity of the third man became known today when Fred E. Atteaux surrendered at police headquarters. He is a member of E. E. Atteaux and Company, dye and color manufacturers of this city. Atteaux was taken into court shortly after his surrender.

MINNEAPOLIS FIRE CAPTAIN KILLED ON WAY TO FIRE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Minneapolis, Sept. 3.—Captain William Treager, veteran fireman in the city service almost instantly was killed early today when his truck collided with a street car while on a fire which destroyed the Webster Whipple Lumber company's yards with a loss of $20,000. Other firemen were injured but not critically.

WILL GIVE PUBLICITY TO CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Sept. 3.—Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee, announced today that a complete record of all contributions of the campaign fund of the republican party will be made public shortly after Oct. 15th.

SENATOR CUMMINS SUPPORTS COLONEL

Announces He Will Vote for Bull Moose Candidate But Will Remain a Republican.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Davenport, Iowa, Sept. 3.—Senator Albert Cummins of Iowa in a public statement issued today said that he expects to vote for Colonel Roosevelt for president, but is opposed to the formation of a third party. He does not believe that President Taft is the choice of the people for president of the nation.

"The renomination of President Taft," said Senator Cummins, "was opposed by an overwhelming majority of the republicans throughout the country simply because in his administration of the office of the office of president he had not done or said the things which the great body of the people believed he should have done and said. A meagre majority of delegates succeeded in re-nominating him."

The senior Iowa senator then reviewed the basis of representations by means of which he claims, states with but a meagre republican vote dominated the convention and forced on the great mass of the party men who are undesirable to the majority of republican voters. Continuing he said, "The man who could not see there would be a rebellion whenever these over-represented states forced a nomination against the strong opposition of the states in which there is a real republican party was blind as a bat, and the man who could not hear the rumble of the rising storm was deaf as an adder."

FUSION POSSIBILITY IN MISSOURI PAST

Progressive Party Refuses to Aid Regular Republicans and Will Have Own State Ticket.

St. Louis, Sept. 3.—The possibility of fusion between the forces of the regular republican and the progressive parties in this state was said today at the headquarters of the latter to have nearly entirely disappeared and that the cry among the delegates to the progressive state convention which opened this afternoon to be "no fusion," and the progressives are fully determined to place their own candidate in the field. It was said to have been the hope of Governor Hadley and some of his followers that the fusion with the progressives might be adopted and that the latter would be induced to support the state ticket on the regular organization. At progressive headquarters it was stated that there had been no effort made to bring this about and that the attempt to bring dissension in the progressive ranks over the nominee of the party's gubernatorial candidate was not a part of this plan. Roosevelt will be the chief attraction at the convention this afternoon. He is to begin his address to the delegates at about 6:00 after which he may address the Civic club, after which he will depart of the north.

TAFT BREAKS REST TO GIVE ADDRESSES

Leaves Beverly Today to Deliver Speeches at Boston and Washington—Sails on Mayflower Thursday.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 3.—President Taft leaves Beverly late today for Washington where tomorrow he will deliver the opening address to the International Congress of Applied Chemistry. On his way south the president will stop in Boston long enough to address a national convention of postoffice clerks at Faneuil Hall and will dine with Representative John W. Weeks of Massachusetts. He will stay in Washington over night Wednesday and leave Thursday in time to board the presidential yacht, Mayflower, about 3 o'clock that afternoon. Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee and George R. Seldon, its treasurer, will join the president in New York. The Mayflower will carry the presidential party to New London, Conn., where on Friday President Taft will address the Atlantic Deep Waterways Association.

KAREL CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE FILES ITS EXPENSE ACCOUNT

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Sept. 3.—The campaign committee for John C. Karel, democratic candidate for governor, spent $32,368 and incurred obligations of $7,230 according to the final expense account. J. C. Karel gave $1,000 and his brother contributed $400.

TO INVESTIGATE DECLINE OF SHELL FISH INDUSTRY.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Andrews, N. B., Sept. 3.—The commission appointed by the Dominion Government to inquire into the cause for the decline of the oyster and other shell fish industries of the eastern provinces met here today to conduct its first hearing. Subsequent sittings of the commission will be held at the principal shore ports of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS BARN NEAR SHEBOYGAN TODAY.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sheboygan, Sept. 3.—The barn of Julius Shohn at a few miles north of here, was struck by lightning in the storm of early yesterday morning and the barn and contents consisting of the entire crop of hay and grain was totally destroyed. The loss is several thousand dollars.

EXPLOSION WRECKED A STORE IN RACINE

Building in Southern Part of City of Racine Blown Up By Dynamite Early This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Racine, Sept. 3.—Residents of the southern part of the city were aroused from their sleep early today by a terrific explosion followed by the crashing of glass and a fire alarm. It was found that one store front of the building at the corner of Carroll and Center streets was in flames and wrecked on the inside. The building is owned by William Lehnelt and the stock of groceries and meat is owned by Miss Mayne Oile. Miss Oile claims the place was blown up by one of her enemies and the people living in the vicinity are mystified over the affair. The loss on the building is estimated at $1,000 and on the stock at $1,800, is covered by insurance.

Paris Has Spoken Again and All of the Feminine World is Waiting On Tip Toe to Hear

By J. R. HAMILTON.

Former Advertising Manager of Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

From the Bois de Boulogne to the Rue de la Paix there is only one topic in Paris today. While over on this side, from Hell Gate clear out to the peaceful Pacific, there is still but one topic all ears to beguile.

And that vital topic's the topic of STYLE.

Today, whether you live in New York or in some far distant little inland town, you can walk into your favorite store and buy exactly the same styles as are being worn right now in the cafes and on the Boulevards of Paris.

"But how is this possible?" you say, "when the new styles have been shown in Paris itself less than a month?"

And the answer to that is what we call American Enterprise. To begin with, the great coutouriers and modistes, even of Paris, do not make the styles they only submit them.

These great style creators, Paquin, Poiret, Lucile, Worth and a dozen others were feeling their way for this fall's styles as early as last June. At the races at Autueil they first tried out their fabrics, then colors and their styles on the women of Paris.

Each creator sent his maillains out onto the Boulevards, into the cafes and to the races, to promenade up and down in some new gown.

The women of Paris shook their heads at one style and nodded at another. They smiled at this and frowned at that.

And from all these varied smiles and frowns, the creators took their cues, and went to work again.

These great modistes did not allow the public to get even a peek at their wonderful creations till the middle of August. But every buyer and manufacturer of importance in all America was there to get that peek. Then these enterprising manufacturers got busy with the cables and the factories on this side got busier. Letters, photographs, sketches tumbled in on the heels of one another. Whole bales of beautiful costumes were rushed over by fast steamer.

And now today there isn't a single style shown in Paris that has not been duplicated in every city and town on this side.

Parisian women are riding along the Bois, or dining at the Hotel Ritz or strolling about the beautiful gardens of the Cafe Madrid or Armenoville talking style, Style STYLE! and wearing it.

And you, no matter where you may be, can open this paper today (and every day from now on), you can look at the style advertisements, one by one, and read about exactly the same styles your Parisian sisters are talking about—over their tea and in their promenades.

More than that, you can go down town and buy these self-same styles—so much the same in fact that you, yourself could stroll into Armenoville or pre Catalan and be dressed entirely in keeping and feel entirely at home.

You will find these new styles described and illustrated in the advertising columns of this paper daily. Read them.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS PROGRAM OF RACING

OVER FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE
WITNESSED SPEED EVENTS OF LABOR DAY.

BUICK AGAIN A WINNER

Excelsior and Indian Twin Cylinders
Victors in Motorcycle Race—
White Hope Wins Class
"A" Race.

More than five thousand people, by far the largest crowd that has attended any race program at the Janesville Driving Park this season witnessed the program of automobile, motorcycle, and horse races yesterday afternoon. Before one o'clock street cars, carriages and automobiles, all loaded to their capacity, began to converge upon the grounds, and by the time the entries for the first race called out on the track the grandstand was filled to its capacity, scores of automobiles were packed inside the track, and hundreds of people lined the fence from the grandstand to the racing stables. A very large part of the crowd was composed of visiting labor union men, their families and friends from Beloit and Rockford.

For the greater number of those present the automobile races held the keenest interest, and their interest was rewarded by remarkably fast "going" on a track not especially adapted for auto racing. Herman Fiehlipp, in a Buick Model 10, won easily in both the ten and twenty mile events, his time in the first race being 1:02, and in the second 25:23. A Planders 20 machine, driven by Grover Horn, was the sole competitor of Fiehlipp in the first race. In the second a third car, a forty horse power Mercer machine owned by Mr. Barnes of Rockford, was entered. The Buick took the lead at the start and held it throughout. The Mercer, a much more powerful machine, and held second place, and the Planders third. The cars kept very nearly the same distance from one another throughout the race. The Mercer gained perceptibly on the straightaways, but did not dare to negotiate the curves at the speed of Fiehlipp. Grover Horn obtained more and more speed out of his machine as the race progressed, and took the curves with almost undiminished speed.

While the Mercer machine was being tuned up on the track before the race, it skidded on the north turn and ran into the ditch, tearing off about eight feet of wire fence. The driver was thrown out, was cut about the face by the hub wire, and injured his shoulder so that he was not able to pilot the car in the race. His mechanic substituted. The machine was not damaged.

Motorcycle Races.
Roy Worthington, riding an Indian two-cylinder machine was an easy winner in the ten mile motorcycle race, his time being 15. Elmer Good of Beloit, riding a Harley-Davidson took second place, and Mr. Stebbins also of Beloit, driving a single-cylinder Indian, third place. Carl Fromm of Fort Atkinson took first place at the start in the fifteen mile motorcycle race, his machine being a twin cylinder Excelsior, and held the lead until the eighth lap when Stebbins who rode the twin Indian, and was holding second place was ditched on the north turn. The race was then called off. Elmer Good on a Harley-Davidson was third, and Orwyn Bohman, fourth at this time. The latter two machines were given a mile handicap. Bohman suffered a fall in the seventh lap.

Horse Races.
Close and exciting brushes marked the two horse races, although no phenomenally fast time was made. Jack Sheridan's White Hope, entered in Class A, paced the fastest heat, a half mile in 1:11. There were five heats in each race. The results in the Class "A" race were as follows:

Horse	Owner	Position
White Hope	Jack Sheridan	2311
Daisy Jones	Norah Jones	11222
Red Babe	Mahoney	33444
Roxetta	Dave Griffin	44333
Time: 1. 1:14 45; 2. 1:12 35; 3. 1:12 15; 4. 1:11; 5. 1:12.

The results in the Class "B" race were:

Horse	Owner	Position
Easter Lily	John C. Nichols	12121
Major K.	William Kishlow	31312
Black Beauty	Allen Walsh	232
Dexter S.	Edward Schmiedley	44
Time: 1. 1:18; 2. 1:18 15; 3. 1:15 15; 4. 1:14; 5. 1:17.

Dexter S. was taken home at the end of the third heat, and Black Beauty was withdrawn at the same time, being lame.

Lively Base Ball Game.

A lively baseball game was played between two teams, captained respectively by Skelly Hell and Fred Porter, and made up of some of the best players in the Commercial League. Seven innings were played, the final score being 10 to 6 in favor of Porter's team. Hell's team kept the lead until the seventh inning when Porter's players took the lead and ran in five more scores. The race program was started before the conclusion of the game and distracted the attention of both the players and spectators. The lineups were as follows: Skelly Hell, Captain; Brown, c; Abraham, p; Hell, ss; Nebr, 1b; Sullivan, 2b; Edler, 3b; Berger, 1b; Greene, cf; Wilson, rf; Krissen, sub. Fred Porter, Captain; Dorn, c; Connell, p; Korst, ss; Fred Porter, 1b; Cronin, 2b; Foster Porter, 3b; Hanson, 1b; Howard, rf; Klusky, cf.

Sympathy Counts.

We often do more good by our sympathy than by our labors, and render to the world a more lasting service by absence of jealousy and recognition of merit than we could ever render by the straining efforts of personal ambition.—Farrar.

Cause of Suffering.

Consider how much more you often suffer from anger and grief than from those things by which you are angered or grieved.

KISSING PRINCESS AT MYERS THEATRE

Musical Comedy Production Was Attraction at Local Playhouse
Monday, Afternoon and Evening.

"The Kissing Princess" a musical comedy of great success was presented at the Myers Theatre yesterday afternoon and evening. The weather was rather unfavorable owing to the intense heat but in spite of this two good sized audiences greeted the company. The production has met much strength as a piece of dramatic art, but introduces the company in some very clever songs and comedy sketches. Chas. Cross as an agent for a New York firm and posing under the name of the Shah of Bagdad was the center of the attraction throughout the play. Lew Rose in the role of General Panklemyer, the head of the Bagdad army, was the mirth of the play, and Mac O'Neill as the army of Bagdad was also an interesting character. Orlova Barton in the role of the Kissing Princess made a decided hit, and Broeze La Verne, the latest girl of the court, took her part satisfactorily and responded several times for her song "Oh You Circus Day." Of the song numbers the best were: "Ragtime Goblin Man," "O, You Girl," "I am the Kissing Princess," "Will You Learn to Love Me" and "Oh You Circus Day."

LINK AND PIN

Chicago and Northwestern.....
ROUND HOUSE WILL HAVE
TEAM IN FIELD NEXT SEASON

The boys at the round house are already planning have have a baseball team in the league next season and they promise that it will be much better than the one this season. The railroad men deserve much credit for having got a team together and playing every game when it was impossible to get the same players for each game.

Engineer Stewart and fireman DeKayes are on run 535 today.

William Sullivan, the favorite of the roundhouse boys is taking a much needed rest.

Engineer Burdick and fireman Bingham are on run 331 today.

Engine 1425 is in the shops today to have a little work done on it.

There have been very many wrecks during the past month in Wisconsin and many other places, owing to the fact that we are having a great deal of rain.

Business is picking up at the round house very fast and two new machinists were added to the force yesterday.

Engineer Wilson and fireman Doolay are on the 9 o'clock switch engine. Nothing has been heard from Calle Robert Edman as yet and the boys are kind of worried that he has forgotten them. Last heard from him he was in the Black Hills.

Jay Fish, the down town call boy, is putting in all his extra time studying as he intends to take the examination for brakeman in the near future.

EDGERTON COUNCIL MEETING LAST NIGHT

Little Business Brought Up—Bills Allowed—Other News Of Edgerton Happenings.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Sept. 3.—Last night was held the first regular meeting of the common council of the present month. Although a full quorum was present the business of the meeting centered upon the allowance of bills which in amount proved beyond expectations of the finance committee. No further business of importance came before the meeting.

Edgerton News Notes.

Miss Edna Hublitz left yesterday for Watertown on a visit of one or two weeks with relatives there.

Stated communication of Fulton Lodge No. 69, F. & A. M. will be held tomorrow evening at eight o'clock.

Mrs. P. B. Green of Janesville arrived yesterday on a visit of a few days with relatives.

Rev. J. K. Macinnis spent the day yesterday in Milton.

Misses Bessie and Marie Cunningham returned last night from a visit of ten days which they spent with relatives in Madison and Wausaukee.

Miss Elizabeth Cunningham of Madison, a cousin, accompanied them home for a week's stay.

Miss Esther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wiseman, was tendered a pleasant surprise last night at the family home on Washington street, the occasion being her tenth birthday. Friends and playmates to the number of about twenty gathered and enjoyed a pleasant evening. Delicious refreshments were served and the surprised hostess was the recipient of numerous gifts.

Ladies of the Monday Club to the number of fifteen yesterday afternoon drove to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tontin in Albion township, the occasion being a surprise on their daughter, Mrs. Frank Horton, who is here from Blunt, S. D., and will take her departure again for home in a few days. A delightful afternoon was spent.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Venske, Sr., entertaining a company of relatives from Chicago, Sunday, including Mr. and Mrs. George Grochowski, Albert Meisler and son Emil, Richard Bessert, Henry Grochowski, Richard Meisler and Miss J. Miller.

Yesterday marked the opening of the Edgerton public schools for the fall term. The opening session lasted but a few hours, being devoted to organizing of the classes. This morning, however, the school proper opened.

T. B. Hontz, just south of the city, on Sunday lost two head of three year old horses by overeating of grain. A window in the granary accidentally left open gave the animals access to the feed and thence went to the creek for water and died instantly. The loss is estimated at $350. A yearling colt was also affected in the same manner but is recovering.

MUCH LITERATURE IS MAILED TO MEMBERS

Prohibition Party is Busy With Its Campaign Documents These Days.

The "drys" are sending out quantities of letters with printed matter from their headquarters at Madison urging the faithful to attend the primaries today that a big vote may be polled for their various candidates.

Two years ago they barely got enough votes to name a state ticket, in fact lost out on two state nominees, but this year owing to the amendment reducing the required percent the leaders feel quite safe in "making sure" by this special exhortation. They are much encouraged over the primary returns from Michigan where the Prohibits equalled the "bull moose" primary vote. Does it mean that Teddy will be fifth rather than third in the race? A special appeal is also being made by the state chairman for the election of party committeemen as provided for in the primary.

To strengthen the party's propaganda work the state chairman has recently acquired an up-to-date printing plant and expects to keep it busy until election day. The first production of the new plant is the second number of "The Partizan" which is to be published as the official organ hereafter. This issue contains a striking cartoon indicating from the standpoint how the liquor traffic has its tentacles about the school, the church and the state house. These cartoons will be issued by the thousands.

The speaking plans for the campaign have not yet been fully outlined but they involve auto trips.

WHEN A LAXATIVE IS NEEDED—"CASCARETS"

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills Are Violent—They Act on Bowels As Pepper Acts in Nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you constipated or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

special rallies and extended itineraries by the "dry" orators. State Secretary Taynton has just returned from some special field work and reports that conditions are exceedingly favorable for a greatly increased prohibition vote in Wisconsin.

Hon. Charles E. Newlin of Indiana, one of their ablest speakers and workers, is now in the state for several engagements. Chairman Smith will take the field more or less, addressing special rallies and exhorting the fighting forces to renewed zeal.

MUCH NEW SIDEWALK ORDERED BY COUNCIL

Superintendent of Streets Directed to Serve Notices on Many Owners of Real Estate—Other Business.

Sidewalk orders, directing the superintendent of streets to order property owners to build standard cement walks and aprons in front of their property, constituted the bulk of the business brought before the city council at its meeting this afternoon.

The time of frosts and more or less hazardous work with concrete is not far away, and the council is anxious to have all needful work completed at as early a date as possible. Orders to build sidewalk and aprons were directed served on the owners of the west one-half of lots 163 and 164 in Mitchell's third addition, and lot 191 in Mitchell's fifth addition, said walks to be on the north side of Ravine street, on the owners of lot 2, block 6 in Pleasant View addition, the walk to be on Racine street; on the owners of the west one-half of lots 217 and 218 in Mitchell's fifth addition; on the owners of lot 19, block 6 in Pleasant View addition, on the west side of Pine street, and on the owners of lots 3 and 4 and the north one-half of lot 5 and south one-half of lot 5 in block 17 in Smith's addition.

Brick cross-walks were ordered built across Palm street on the north side of Ravine street, across Pine street on the north side of Ravine street and across Forest Park boulevard on the north side of Oakland avenue.

The bonds and contracts of Gray Robinson Construction company of Manitowish, to construct sewers in Sewer Districts 4, 14, 3, 5, and 16 were accepted and approved.

Mayor Farber submitted for confirmation the appointments as special police without pay for Labor day of Charles Thompson, J. P. Heider, R. C. Keman, S. Frederickson, George E. O'Neill, Orlaf Olson, Charles Stone, and G. C. Nasett. The appointments were duly confirmed.

James Gillespie, janitor at the city hall, was granted a ten days' vacation.

$80,000,000.00 Lost Annually by Wage Earners.
Dr. Sadler estimates that $80,000,000.00 in wages is lost annually to the American people as a direct result of colds. Lost time means lost wages and doctoring is expensive. Use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. It will stop the cough, and heal and soothe the sore and inflamed air passages. Cure your common colds quickly, and prevent their developing into more serious conditions. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no opiates. Is safe for children. The genuine is in the yellow package. Badger Drug Co.

Fear and apprehension make people nervous and sick. The thousand and one needless worries over the future are simply providence for the morrow gone mad. Fear of disease and death are normal; but to allow the mind to dwell on these things is to become a hypochondriac with no more stability than the leaf of the aspen.

Chiropractic Puts New Life Into Sick, Diseased, Worn Out Bodies

CHIROPRACTIC THE WONDER SCIENCE OF THIS WONDER CENTURY. A WONDERFUL BOON TO THE SICK AND AILING.

FIRST OPENING

Chiropractic by relieving pinched nerves and letting Nature again supply the diseased or weakened parts of the body with nerve nourishment removes the cause of disease very readily, and the new nerve force coursing through the body puts new life into it.

You who are sick or ailing cannot afford to overlook Chiropractic. You must admit the value of this science to the sick. It's here and growing favorable in the eyes of the world at the rate of the Wireless, the Aeroplane, the Submarine, has in the past few years.

Note the illustration at 2nd opening. Can the nerve leaving the spine at that point carry its normal amount of nerve nourishment? Of course not. Relieve the pressure and it is easy to see, that the nerve would flow on uninterrupted.

That the line-plunging tactics so popular a few years ago in college football will again come into popularity this fall is certain, especially among the big colleges. Under the new rules, which provide for four downs instead of three, teams will be able to smash their way along by using straight football, where last season they fell just a yard or two short of making the required distance.

Pittsburgh's Brown university recruit, southpaw pitcher Warner, says he doesn't know how long he will stick to professional baseball. Warner intends to take up electrical engineering as his real life work.

Welterweight champion of the world, is the label Kid Graves of Milwaukee has pinned upon himself of late. The kid has had such success in the east that he feels himself justified in claiming the 142-pound title. He has lately beaten Young Ahearn, the dacing master, and Frank Lourey, of Philadelphia. The kid says he will get a chance in Madison Square Garden soon.

Frank Moran hasn't shown himself much of a world-beater since his return from Europe. He has won but one fight and got that because his opponent broke an arm and had to quit. Moran is the faintest hearted fighter going. He looks good in the gym, but his nerve leaves him entirely when he steps under the ropes.

Hughes, of Milwaukee, Carr of Kansas City; Butler, of St. Paul, and Hinchman, of Columbus are neck and neck in the race for the highest batting average in the American Association. Each has a percentage of .335.

Freddy Welsh, the former light-weight champion of England, is to have a chance to redeem his title. He has been matched to box Matt Wells, the present title holder, before the national sporting club of London on the 21st of October. Welsh is now in Canada. Before leaving for England he expects to take on a bout or two in New York, the first one probably with Young Jack O'Brien.

Why wouldn't it be a good plan to create a national boxing commission? We have a national baseball commission, and a very useful institution it is, too. With the welterweight and middleweight divisions without a legitimate champion—that is a fighter universally recognized as champion—the need of some sort of a body to handle the situation becomes very evident. If a commission were organized it would be an easy matter in case of a champion passing away select two, three or four of the best men in the division and let them fight it out in an elimination series of three bouts. The man winning the series would become the real champion and would be recognized as such.

A boxing commission would have some job right now, however, in selecting four fighters in the middleweight division without causing a lot of jealousy on the part of the remainder. Some of the boys entitled to recognition are Eddie McGoorty, Frank Klaus, George Carpenter, Johnny Thompson, Jimmy Chubby and Mike Gibbons. Each one of these thinks he can win the middleweight title at this time if given a chance.

serve the Elgin road races Friday and Saturday.

Shortly following the Elgin races it is expected Mr. Wagner will announce many more entries for the Vanderbilt cup races to be held in Milwaukee, as practically all successful drivers in Illinois contests are considered certain to enter Milwaukee's big classic program. Present prospects are that the list of speedsters by early next week will consist of about twenty for the Vanderbilt Cup races; seventeen for the Grand Prix and a dozen or more each for the Pabst Blue Ribbon and Wisconsin Challenge trophy races. Many more will wait until near the dates of closing entries, September 10 and 14 before making known definitely their intentions.

JANESVILLE GOLFERS TO VISIT LINE CITY

Friday, September 6th, Date Set by Beloit Country Club For Entertaining Local Players.

Friday, September 6th, is the date set for the Home and Home Golf contest, between the members of the Mississippi Golf club and the Beloit Country club, at the latter's grounds near Beloit. The invitation from the Beloit club names twenty players to compete on each team. This is the largest number that the Beloit club can entertain at the club dinner, which will follow the games. Friday is the regular club day for the Line City club and in consequence they will be unable to entertain a larger number of Janesville guests than the twenty credited to the golf team. In order that Janesville will send down a good strong team and the Beloit club may have word just how many players will be present. It is asked that all who will play, to notify J. P. Baker before Wednesday night that word may be sent Beloit. It promises to be an interesting contest as the rivalry between the two clubs is intense.

MANY AUTOMOBILISTS HERE ON LABOR DAY

Large Number of Out of Town Cars Carrying Tourists Were in The City Yesterday.

The Labor Day holiday brought a large number of automobile tourists to this city yesterday many of them from nearby cities coming here for the races at the Driving Park, and others passed through here on their way to and from their home. In all about fifty were included on the registers at the Myers and Grand Hotels. At the Myers Hotel, the automobile guests were: Mrs. Henry Turvill, Miss H. Turvill, H. L. Turvill, and Mr. H. Turvill; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fleck and Mrs. Nora Fleck, Brookfield; George W. Blanchard, L. C. Whitte and L. D. Jensen, Edgerton; Messrs. A. B. Sheade, A. W. Guest and L. J. ## TAG DAY SALE WAS QUITE SUCCESSFUL

Incomplete Returns From Sale Indicate About Four Hundred Dollars Was Collected Yesterday.

Returns from the tag day yesterday to add to the building fund for the new Mercy hospital, held yesterday, are incomplete as yet, but the indications are that the amount collected by the sale of the tags will total between four and five hundred dollars. Parties of young ladies and children, worked about the business section of the city yesterday, tagging all who came along. A party of the taggers was situated at each corner under the direction of a chaperone, and it is estimated that about five thousand tags were sold. Those who had the Tag Day in charge are highly gratified with its results. The ladies who chaperoned the tag-sellers were: Miss Lillian Bourgmeier, Mrs. E. J. Manning, Mrs. D. J. Luby, Mrs. W. A. Munn, Mrs. J. P. Pember, Mrs. George H. Devins, Mrs. T. W. Nuzum, and the Misses McKoen.

OUR SUIT SECTION IS NOW IN A POSITION TO SHOW HUNDREDS OF ADVANCED MODELS FOR EARLY AUTUMN WEAR

No Former Year Has Ever Found Us So Thoroughly Ready Or So Splendidly Equipped.

Some of the new features of our Fall Suits are the longer coats. Most of them are cut on straight lines, some slightly aslant, others decidedly cutaway. The skirts have many charming effects in plaits and slashings. The materials are Serges, Cheviots, Heavy Diagonals, Mannish Suitings, Corduroys and Two-Toned Mixtures in the new browns, navy, brown and black, grey and black. We show a big assortment of fancy mixtures, which are especially good this season.

The styles are unusually pleasing and nobby, having a tendency to be adapted to everybody's figure.

Complete Lines of Suits for Stout Women

We wish to call your particular attention to the fact that we have made special efforts on our odd sized and short-waisted suits for large women sizes from 37 to 53 bust. We invite your early inspection.

Coats, Mackinaws and Sweaters

Coats were never so attractive before. Our New English Topper or Johnny Coats are sensations this season. They are intended for immediate wear and are decidedly nobby; 42 to 29 inches long. They are shown in heavy double faced cloth, wide wale materials and fancy mixtures. Ask to see them.

We are showing a large line of Mackinaw Coats, the popular out-of-door coat, also the New Mackinaw Style Coats with Hats to match, which are entirely new.

You'll delight in our display of Distinctive Sweater Coats. There is a model for every taste.

Have you seen the new shaggy Norfolk Sweater Coat? A new novelty of great merit. See it.

If 80 per cent of the people were "bums"

we couldn't boast much of our civilization. Statistics compiled by the piano trade show that of the entire output of pianos, 80 per cent are of the bums variety, and still we boast of our musical culture. My own experience in the sheet music business, would indicate that 90 per cent of all sheet music sold is of the "popular" variety, and we must admit that this stuff is not music at all, just a vulgar ditty, made as suggestive in title and text as it is possible to make it without danger of its being "Comstocked" and it would seem that old Anthony is "asleep at the switch."

I believe in good pianos and my business record proves it.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN IN PRIMARY

FIRST NOMINATION DAY WITHOUT USE OF RIGS BRINGS OUT SMALL NUMBERS.

VOTE IS VERY LIGHT

Little Attention Paid to Second Choice For Most Part—Many Wanted To Vote For Karel.

But little interest was shown throughout the city today in the primary election. The vote in the various polling places taken at twelve o'clock shows that less than two thirds the vote of 1910 was out and the lack of enthusiasm was placed at the absence of the ward workers and rigs, used in former primaries, by candidates. This is due to the corrupt practice law which prohibits their use.

In the first ward the vote was 74, in 1910, 139 and in 1908 163; in the second ward the vote was 77, in 1910, 180, and in 1908 126; in the third ward 117, in 1910 283, and in 1908 230; in the fourth ward 84 to 136 in 1910, and 170 in 1908; in the fifth ward 37 to 98 in 1910 and 73 in 1908.

There was some confusion in several wards relative to the fact that men wanting to vote the republican ticket on senatorial, legislative and county affairs could not vote for Judge Karel for the gubernatorial nomination. It was either vote straight or not at all and the head of the republican ticket in many cases was forgotten so intense was the interest on senate, assembly and county offices.

ELECTION RETURNS RECEIVED TONIGHT

Will Be Thrown On Screen From Gazette Office As Fast As Obtained.

In order to supply the demand for information relative to the outcome of today's primary election the Gazette has made arrangements for receiving returns from the various precincts throughout the county as fast as they are received and also from the state at large, so that a general idea can be obtained tonight of the outcome of the various contests. As fast as received these returns will be thrown onto a screen strung from S. Hutchinson and Sons building on Milwaukee street, opposite the Gazette office.

The returns will be slow, in coming in owing to the extra work that the second choice vote will require of the election clerks. As fast as they are received, however, they will be put into shape by experts at work in the Gazette office and the result, announced. As the machines are not used in Janesville the count for this city and Beloit will be slow but some of the township votes should be received earlier in the evening.

The Gazette office will be kept closed during the evening, only persons bringing in returns being admitted, and the results will be shown on the screen as quickly as possible. In the state centers on the Karl Schmidtz contest for the democratic nomination for governor and special attention will be given to obtain accurate returns on this contest as early as possible. The senatorial contest will include returns from Walworth county and the congressional contest, democratic, from the entire first district.

The polls in the cities of Janesville and Beloit will close at eight o'clock, but in the townships and villages, the cities of Edgerton and Evansville, the polls close at five-thirty and the vote from these precincts will be obtained first.

MISS COBB NAMED AS NEW CITY LIBRARIAN

Accepts Position Made Vacant by the Resignation of Miss Lydia Kinsley.

Miss Gertrude Cobb, now connected with the Madison Free Library and a graduate of the Wisconsin Library school, has accepted the position of librarian at the Carnegie Library, made vacant by the resignation of Miss Lydia Kinsley, who went west to take a position in San Francisco. Miss Cobb is a daughter of the late Major S. C. Cobb, and until recently made her home in this city. Her many friends here will be pleased to learn of her acceptance of the position. Miss Cobb will not assume charge of the library until some time early in October.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Special Notice: The W. F. M. S. of the Methodist church will meet with Mrs. J. M. Clark, Thursday at 2:30 p. m. Topic "The Fruitage of the Year." Mite box opening. Give till the Master Steps. Giving to You, Mystery box question. St. Mrs. G. Jacobs for transportation. C. A. Hunt, secretary.

Foundation Nearly Ready: The concrete part of the foundation for the new Christian Science church has been completed and the cutstone portion will be put on at once. Work will be rushed as fast as possible, and the corner-stone will be laid within a short time.

Two Monroe men saw Neil J. Nelson fly at the Portage, Wis., fair last week. His aeroplane exhibitions were easily the feature of the fair and both men returned enthusiastic over the fact that Nelson is coming to Monroe to fly at the Green county fair three times on three days: next week, Sept. 12, 13 and 14. The two who saw Nelson fly are F. B. Luchinger, superintendent of the speed department of the Green county fair, and F. T. Burke, who has acted as judge of races a number of years at Monroe.

Nelson intends to fly from Evansville, where he appears this week, to Monroe on Sunday or Monday. He will doubtless pass over Albany, which is on his airline route between the two towns.

The fair grounds at Monroe have been cleaned up and put in the finest of order. The shade trees have been trimmed, all the barns repaired and remodeled, the ticket office improved and the track worked down. A hay shed large enough to hold fifty tons of hay and straw and 500 bushels of grain has been built near the speed and stock show barns which insures dry feed and bedding. The 30 by 30 foot addition to floral hall, for educational display, has been completed, the work being done by Monroe boys who take manual training in the school. The kitchen to the dining hall has been moved to the west end of the grounds where it will be easily reached by those wishing to eat on the grounds at noon. Work was started this week on erecting bleachers on the inside of the race track to accommodate 400 more persons.

Among the features of George W. Hall's show, which will be one of the main midway attractions, will be Paragon, the $5,000 talking pony; the talker, pig that reads and spells, and also a collection of performing dogs and monkeys.

A large number of entries in all departments are coming in and the indications are that the Green county fair is going to be more up to date, larger and better this year than ever. Race prizes amounting to $5,800 are being hung up, three events being $1,000 stake races. Over $5,000 is offered in cash premiums for exhibits.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN WITH TWO THOUSAND STUDENTS AT DESKS

Long Vacation Period Ends When Youngsters File Into School Rooms At Nine O'clock This Morning.

Janesville school children, two thousand strong, filed into the school rooms of the city schools when the bells sounded at nine o'clock this morning, formally sounding the close of the long summer vacation.

The total enrollment as estimated this afternoon was 1,966 but this will be increased as the week draws to a close and the school habit finally becomes again established.

At the high school the number of students was under 400, considerably less than last year. A smaller freshman class accounts for the decrease although a number of the young people in the upper classes have withdrawn during the summer.

Of the grade schools the Jefferson leads in the number of pupils with 359 attending the eight grades and kindergarten. The Adams school was second with 324 and the Washington third with 256. In the other schools to enrollment was reported as follows: Douglas, 145; Grant, 101; Lincoln, 172; Garfield, 92; Jackson, 57; Webster, 150.

The youngsters came filing back, some loath to return to the steady grind, others rather glad to meet old playmates whom they have not seen during the long summer. Most of the day was devoted to organization of classes, outline of work to be done, and the assignment of tomorrow's lessons.

The high school session closed at noon today and Wednesday will mark the beginning of regular recitations. At the adjournment this noon Supr. Buell called for a mass meeting of the students of the four literary societies and presented for their consideration a plan which would make scholarship a basis for membership in the societies.

The resolution was presented at the last meeting of the board of education and after considerable discussion was laid on the table. It is probable that representatives of the societies will attend the next meeting of the board and give their views of the matter. It is understood that the majority of the society members are opposed to the rule.

According to the proposed measure all students who desire to enter a society shall give their name and the society they wish to join to the principal. Those having the best standing will be the ones eligible and will be the first to join the societies. A number of arguments are presented on both sides.

FRESH SQUASH IS FOUND ON LOCAL MARKET TODAY

Fresh squash is the feature of today's vegetable market. It is the finest to be found on the local market this season and it is very plentiful. The Dutchess apples, which have been so very fine this season, are still of a very good quality, but they are getting to be very scarce and the next few days will see the last of them. Home grown muskmelons, which came on the market some time ago, are getting to be of a much better quality and they are also very abundant. Huckleberries, which had such a heavy demand this season, are just about all gone and the next few days will see the last of them. The prices of the market for today are as follows:

Janesville, Wis., Sept. 3, 1912.
new potatoes, 30c peck; H. G. cabbage, 5c; lettuce, 5c a bunch; head lettuce, 10c; celery, 3 bunches 10c; parsley, 5c bunch; yellow string beans, 8c; fresh tomatoes, 2c lb; hot-house cucumbers, 5c each; rhubarb 5c bunch; green peas, 8c lb; beets 5c bu; green onions, 2 bunches 5c; green peppers, 5c each; H. ### DISSAPPOINTED LOVER ENDS HIS LIFE IN LONELY LOT.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 3.—Yesterday Charles Goede, 28 years old went with his sweetheart to the Labor Day picnic where the attention the girl received from other men aroused his jealousy and after a dispute with her he went home. This morning his body was found in the lot outside his home, where the disappointed lover had shot himself to death.

TODAY'S EVANSVILLE NEWS

FAIR IS OPENED AT EVANSVILLE TODAY

MANY NEW IMPROVEMENTS IN BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS ADDS TO ACCOMMODATIONS.

EXHIBITS ARE IN PLACE

Stock Sheds Are Filled And Other Departments Will Make Fine Showings—Aeroplane Flights.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Sept. 3.—The Rock county fair opened today at this city with prospects for one of the finest exhibitions of farm stock and produce and of the largest attendance in the history of the local fair association.

The latest entered exhibits were put in place this morning and the fair opened in full swing. There was a good attendance today for the first day school children especially being in evidence.

Improvements in the buildings, grounds and half mile race course have added materially to the accommodations and appearances of the park. New sheds to house a larger number of entries of stock of all kinds, cattle, sheep, hogs, and horses, have been built for the fair this year and every available stall was taken. A new poultry building replaces the tent which formerly served as the exhibition place and the showing of chickens, ducks, turkeys and geese is unusually large.

Other departments of the show, agricultural, horticultural, cookery and fine arts are supplied with better exhibition places and every class has a fine list of entries. The display of vegetables and fruits is one of the best ever seen in this section.

Special tents are furnished for the farm machinery, gas engine and vehicle exhibitions, which are larger than usual with a greater number of firms represented. The Janesville Motor company has the largest private exhibition with twelve cars in charge of A. F. Minnick. Three others arrived overland this afternoon a Service motor truck from Hammond, Ind., a Cross Country Rambler from Kenosha, and a 1912 Overland from Milwaukee.

Among the entertainment features which are calculated to draw the crowds is the Curtiss biplane with Aviator Mitchell in charge who will make two flights daily. Mr. Mitchell is one of the Mills aviators, the same firm who gave the entertainment at Janesville during the Eagles' convention.

The racing program promises to be exceptionally good. Pony races were all that were scheduled for today, the first big events coming tomorrow. The entry list is a good one attracted by the substantial purses and lovers of good horse racing will be highly pleased with the program. This afternoon there was also a baseball game between the Janesville White Sox and the Evansville high school nine. A game will be played each day between some amateur teams. The Evansville band furnished music throughout the opening day.

The Evansville political equality league has a large tent erected near the grandstand and will conduct meetings during the week. Mrs. Stewart of Chicago, will give several addresses in behalf of the suffrage cause.

FAMILY REUNION AT EVANSVILLE SUNDAY

Members of Francis Family To Number of Seventy-Five Gathered At Stephenson Farm Near City.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Sept. 3.—The annual Francis reunion to which the direct members of the Francis family bring husbands, wives and children, was held last Sunday on the Frank Stephenson farm about six miles southwest of Evansville. Owing to the rainy weather the attendance was not as large as usual but at noon about seventy-five sat down to a bounteous picnic dinner.

In the afternoon a ball game was played between the married and single men, the resulting score being 5 to 11 in favor of the unmarried men.

Besides those going from Evansville there were families from Oregon, Albany and Attica.

Those coming from distances were Mr. and Mrs. Shuler (formerly Miss Blanche Winters of this city) from Milwaukee; Mrs. Will Winters; Wilfred Francis, Arthur Francis, and Nelson Francis, all from Janesville. Pictures were taken of those present.

Miss Margaret Finnane returned Saturday from Janesville where she visited her aunt, Mrs. Doe.

Mrs. I. D. Wallace and daughter, Marjorie, returned Saturday night from South Dakota, where they spent the summer with Mr. Wallace.

Mrs. Charles Weaver, who has been very ill at her sister's, Mrs. Dilling's, home, is much better and was moved Saturday to her other sister's, Mrs. Denny's.

Miss Marvel Neyhart, returned the last of the week to her home in Gettysburg, North Dakota, after a visit with her cousin, Maude Weaver.

Miss Hattie Chapin has resumed her place in the Economy after her two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Bert Ballard of Chetek, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Del Ballard. She will also visit relatives in Albany.

Frank S. Larkin from Findlay, Ohio, is in town to remain during the fair.

Mrs. Sarah Wilson and daughter, Maude, made a business trip to Janesville Monday.

Mrs. Kutsche and two children went Saturday to Chicago to visit relatives for a week.

Miss Hattie Miles of Beloit is visiting her sister, Mrs. Retta Johnson. Mr. Smith of Brooklyn, is visiting at his daughter's, Mrs. Ray Carpenter.

Miss Ruth Wilson went to Janesville Monday to begin school at Janesville Business College. At present she will return at night and go to work each morning instead of boarding in Janesville.

Charley Thomas has returned from Chicago, where he has been receiving medical care.

Miss Alice Spencer left for Milwaukee, Saturday to resume her work as instructor in English in the North Side High School.

J. C. Lees is entertaining Arthur Lees and wife of Rockford.

Miss Rena Hankenson of Janesville spent Sunday in Evansville.

Miss Nellie Donnelly spent Sunday in Rockford.

Miss Alice Wilder begins her school duties in Spring Valley this week.

Miss Neva Smith just returned from her trip to Buffalo and other places in the East.

Myrl Ballard returned to his work in Janesville Saturday night.

Miss Eva Drafahl of Janesville visited friends here Sunday.

Miss Hazel Courtier spent the week end at her home near Brooklyn.

Jay Baldwin is home for a few days. Charley Cassidy and daughter visited in Janesville recently.

Miss Marion Ames spent Sunday at her home in Brooklyn.

Miss Lucy Langmak returned from Chicago Saturday.

Entries were made rapidly yesterday and all roads must lead to the fair grounds if one judges from the number of farmers entering poultry, stock and grain. The various departments are filling up rapidly and the superintendents are kept busy arranging the articles. The ball field was made ready yesterday. The race entries which were to have been closed the twenty-ninth, are open our certificates of deposit are payable on demand anywhere, and bear interest at the rate of 4% per year. They are always worth a hundred cents on the dollar.

MAKES A REPORT ON RULES OF FOREIGN

the right to demand an actual test for tare. In this test, the rules fix a maximum allowance for tare of only about 5.3 per cent of 26 1-2 pounds on a bale of 500 pounds. This is a discrepancy of 3 1-2 pounds as compared with the 30 pound invoice deduction and the foreign buyer calls upon the exporter to make good that amount.

The American exporter, under these circumstances, according to the report, faces a serious problem to avoid conducting business at a loss. Some cotton merchants, Mr. Conant says, argue that these facts are thoroughly understood by the trade and are adjusted in the price which the exporter asks for his cotton. The commissioner does not entirely agree with this view and says that the practical result of the rules has been that the exporter adds unnecessary tare to his cotton.

"This uncertainty," adds the report, "strikes at the basic factor of every transaction, namely, the amount of the commodity actually sold. It in effect establishes a false standard of weights with the inevitably unfortunate consequence of such a condition. It thus gives an advantage to a skilled class of specialists who best understand the complicated details of the business, with a corresponding disadvantage to the less expert. It is not sufficient to say that the competition among these skilled classes often forces them to turn over the benefit of this false measure to the producer. It is not seriously contended that this is always so, and there is thus ever present the open door to fraud. There is always the invitation to cotton merchants to adopt improper practices, and there is thus enticed into the trade a class of men who bring discredit upon honest merchants. This is not only theoretically so, but it is actually so. Buyers of cotton both in this country and abroad, are constantly finding themselves involved in transactions where shippers have taken advantage of these opportunities to defraud."

The ideal remedy for all these evils, Mr. Conant concludes, is the standardization of tare to be put on a bale of cotton by making it a definite or readily ascertainable amount, so that the net weight may be determined without controversy or test. The present careless and irregular methods of covering cotton, if the evils are allowed to go uncorrected, he declares, seem likely to invite legislation.

SOLD CHEAP MILK IN "HORLICK MILK JAR"

W. W. Pearce, manager at Park and Washington, pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Bell to selling a cheaper grade of malted milk from jars in which "Horlick's Malted Milk" had been blown and when Horlick's Malted Milk was called for. He was fined $25 and costs. The complaint was signed by Food Commissioner Bailey, who is determined to stop the practice of substituting one brand of goods for another without notification of the substitution being made.—Oregon Sunday Journal, Portland, Oregon.

PRICE OF BOOKS WILL SOON BE RAISED

Gazette's Great Offer Will Be Withdrawn in a Few Days, So Don't Delay.

Delays are dangerous, and, as business demands the withdrawal of the Gazette Dictionary you have no time to lose in clipping that coupon. Even for the sake of further educating the public the present distribution cannot be continued. In a few days the proposition of supplying the big little bundles of ready reference information bound in limp leather will be abandoned and the book that is worth $5 will be placed upon the shelves of the book store, the presentation will end, and the sale at $4.00 a volume will be started.

You will have to hurry. In an effort to bar ignorance and incompetence in order to raise the standard of their profession, stenographers of Janesville are giving the educational campaign their unanimous support.

The reason for the low average of wages paid the toilers at the typewriters has been given by employers as a lamentable lack of knowledge of the English language, spelling and punctuation, on the part of the employed.

The plan which the Gazette has suggested and the stenographers are eagerly endorsing is that each operator who is anxious to better his or her condition obtain the best and handiest work of English ever compiled—the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, illustrated.

Practical experience has proven that by using the work as an error eliminator perfect copy can be produced and the argument of the employer that the employee is not worth more, than the low salary paid, successfully refuted.

The demand of stenographers for dictionaries is growing hourly, and the result is sure to be more money and better work.

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary, or by their successors.

THE Rock County Savings AND Trust Company

THIS new institution, operating under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, will open its doors to the public, at the office of the Rock County National Bank in the Jackman block, tomorrow morning, September 4th, at 9 o'clock a. m. It will be controlled and managed by the same interests that control the Rock County National Bank. The strength of a financial institution lies in its capital—its assets, its honorable history and ability, character and standing of the men who conduct its affairs. The Rock County National Bank, possessing all these qualities and controlling the new company, gives The Rock County Savings and Trust Company a splendid foundation to start upon.

Start a Savings Account With $1. 3% Interest Paid On January 1st.

Every thinker recognizes how essential the saving habit is to success. A regular sum regularly deposited as you receive your income is the secret of substantial saving. Open an account here and now. A single dollar is enough to start you. Then add to it regularly. It will earn three per cent for you. This amount will be paid on January first on all sums that have been in the bank one or more months. All deposits made on or before September 10th will draw interest from the first. Who will be the first to make a deposit?

Safeguard Your Estate. Retain Your Own Attorney.

Many persons devote the best years of their lives to the accumulation of a competence for themselves and families. It also behooves individuals to consider the question of having this accumulation safeguarded after they have passed away, that they, their families or relatives may secure the full benefits of the estate. This new Trust company will faithfully and economically perform the duties of the executor. You are invited to consult with us about this matter. Your own attorney will be retained.

THE DIRECTORS IN THE NEW COMPANY ARE: F. H. Jackman, Pres.; A. P. Burnham, Vice-Pres.; C. H. Weirick, Sec.; C. S. Jackman, Michael Hayes, A. Lawson and C. W. Jackman.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

HOMES FOR WOMEN.

HOMES are mostly for women. They are managed chiefly by women, lived in a longer time by women, and cared for almost entirely by women. I am sure no one will deny these facts. Why, then, is not more attention paid to woman and her convenience in the building of homes and the manufacture of household furnishings?

A friend of mine built a house. By her thrift she helped her husband earn and save the money for it, and then, because he was so much absorbed in his business, she was given the chief charge of building the new home. And being an original woman she did not feel obliged to build it exactly as men had built the thousands of other homes in her city. Instead she incorporated into it innumerable little features which made it a better place for women to live and work in than the average house.

For instance, she has a big linen closet upstairs in which are several long drawers long enough to hold a skirt laid out at full length. Any woman will appreciate the convenience of that. And how easily such an arrangement might be made in almost any house. But how seldom it is.

Again, this woman has the sink built several inches higher than the average sink. "What is the need," she says, "of having a sink as low that I have to stoop to do my work there, when it costs no more to build it a comfortable height?"

Another thing on which this woman insisted was that the architect should give her room downstairs for a sewing room. It is just a wee bit of a room with only space for a sewing machine, a chest of drawers, a table and a chair or two, and a big window with a very pleasant prospect, but the saving in trips over the stairs or in clutter in the big living-room is enormous.

These are some of the ways in which one bright woman who was given a change improved on masculine architecture. Women everywhere ought to be given more to say about home-building and ought to exert themselves to think and say and act more than they do on this very important subject. And the result would be not only to make their own individual homes better places for women to live and work in, but to improve the pattern of the ready-made homes which are being man-built by the thousand all over this country.

Nor should woman stop at influencing architecture; she should also do all she can to influence manufacture. For instance, I am appalled at the heavy tea kettles which are sold to foolish women who daily overtax their strength in lifting them. Women ought to put an end to the manufacture of such articles by refusing to buy them.

Again, look at the difference in labor between making a high or low bed. There is no excuse for these back-breaking low beds. A bed has to be made as well as slept in, and manufacturers should remember that, and when they fail to, should be taught a lesson.

They tell us that the American man will give the American woman anything at all she wants to ask for!

Let's learn to ask for houses and household furnishings that shall be more efficient from a feminine point of view.

says "No." How can I persuade her and where shall I persuade her to go? H. T. GRADUATE.

(1) I do not know. It seems to me you had better consult a good doctor and follow his treatment. (2) If the young men are reputable I can see no harm in it at your age. (3) If he has simply been your escort and not your sweetheart, just manage to have somebody else with you when you do not wish his company. If he is a sweetheart, tell him frankly that you cannot consent to deceive your mother any longer. (4) No. (5) It is legible—no particular style. (6) Possibly. (7) If she refuses to go away of course you can't make her, ever for her own good. But if you wish her to have a rest from home duties, ask her if she won't play a game with you; if you play Mother and she to play Daughter, say, for a couple of weeks, and see how you both act with duties and pleasures changed around. Reserve the privilege to "advise her" and to "spank her if necessary;" she to act as much like a girl of 18 as possible; see to it that she has as good a time as you would like to have now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—(1) When a gentleman asks a young lady to do something, what should she answer? (2) When he escorts her to her friends after he has danced with her and says, "I thank you," what would be her reply? (3) Is it proper for the gentleman or the lady to speak first when passing on the street? (4) I have been corresponding for one and one-half years with a young man who is very well known to our entire family and who has been a playmate of mine. He generally writes very interesting letters, which I enjoy, but sometimes he says, "I have insulted him when I know I have written nothing of an insulting nature. He has a very peculiar disposition and for that reason I am afraid I cater to him more than I should. I think a great deal of him until I receive some of these rude letters and then I really hate him. He says he thinks a great deal of me, but sometimes I think differently. Would you contemplate marriage with a fellow of this kind?"

PIGGY. (1) "I shall be pleased." (2) It was a pleasure. (3) The lady. (4) Keep him for a friend if you like, but don't let him in being married to a "peculiar disposition." Such people don't get any better as they grow older—usually worse.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I live over a store in five rooms. I work for the storekeeper and buy the coal for his cook stove in the winter. We get the heat in two other rooms from the furnace that heats the store and get rent free and $35 a month besides. I have a wife and four children. Do you think that is fair wages? It seems very hard for us to get along. I have a good wife who saves wherever she can. I worry. I should judge that it must be difficult for a family of six to get along on that amount. However, I cannot tell whether your wages are fair or not, as I do not know what kind of work you are doing.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

IF THE day looks kinder gloomy, And your chances kinder slim; If the situation's puzzlin' And the prospect awful grim, And perplexities keep pressin' Till all hope is gone, Just bustle up and grit your teeth, An' keep on keepin' 'em.

WHEN COMPANY COMES.

When company comes we like to serve them with just the best the house can afford, and happy is the housekeeper who recognizes her limitations and knows her resources from pocket book to energy and strength. The house wife who has loads of silver, cut glass and fine linen, delights to give elaborate feasts, and they are all right for those who can afford them; but where there is one with wealth at her disposal there are thousands who enjoy entertaining, if it must be simple.

When our women learn to do with what they have, or can have, without a burden of debt, happy that they have friends and can enjoy them, entertaining as becomes their circumstances, not aping after those who have large means at their disposal, we will have less nervous, discontented women and fewer business failures and discouraged men.

Our amusements and pleasures should be adapted to our position and circumstances. The tired business man who must struggle into a dress suit and start out at nine or ten o'clock at night for a party, sees very little enjoyment in anticipation; but if he could drop in to a simple supper or dinner, go home at a reasonable hour, he would be rested and ready for work the next day.

The truly great are they who live simple, sane and comfortable lives, entertaining at reasonable hours normal people.

When making custard pie, it is a little more elegant if a half cup of coconut is added just before putting into the oven, and when serving, a tablespoonful of whipped cream added, makes a really elegant dessert. Hospitality is as old as the hills, the good book tells us, "that a dinner of herbs where love is, is better than a stalled ox, with hatred therewith."

Woman's Economy as Man Sees It.

WOMEN are supposed to be economists par excellence, aren't they?" asked the man, joining the group at the tea-table. The women brightened and nodded their heads energetically. "We have to be economical," replied one. "The money we have never seems to go round and we just have to stretch it and twist it and parcel it out cleverly."

"And we've been trained in it for generations," said another, "so it is second nature."

"Just so," responded the man. "I thought it was a trait which women claimed especially."

"Look out!" warned the man's sister. "This is what you call Socratic reasoning or something like that. Isn't it? And he's just making a nice big hole for you all to fall into. Now why, brother dear, are you just at present interested in the subject of economy from a woman's standpoint?"

"I have an idea it will make an interesting study, because of a forced illustration I saw the other day."

"Molly went down town," he went on, "in a new suit, a new hat, new gloves, everything epic and span new. I wouldn't venture to suggest what the outfit cost."

"A hundred dollars," hazarded one woman. "Every bit," nodded another. "Fiddliesticks!" said a third, "I can get everything I want for a new costume for fifty dollars. And I don't think I look so bad."

"Well," interrupted the man, "as I was saying, Molly had on all her glad rags and she did look some. And then a storm came up, a regular down-pour—bucketsful. Now Molly can't ride very near her home in the trolley. But do you think she would take a taxi?"

"Of course not," chorused the women. "Why it would cost—"

"But," interrupted the man, "she ruined her hat, her suit, her gloves, everything."

"Oh, what a shame," groaned the women. "But," said the man desperately, "if she'd taken a taxi or a cab, she wouldn't have got a drop on her."

"But think of spending two or three dollars to get home!" exclaimed the women. "But think of ruining a fifty-dollar or a hundred-dollar costume," returned the man. "Where's the economy in that deal?"

"Didn't I tell you," said the sister, "he was going to catch you some way?"

"Women are not economical," went on the man. "Their ideas of economy are perverted."

The women pondered awhile. "It isn't that," at last volunteered one. "But they have a true sense of value. Molly knew the trip home wasn't worth two dollars, and her soul rebelled at paying two dollars for what she could get for five cents."

"Under the circumstances it was worth ten dollars," contested the man. "But Molly wasn't seeing the side issues. She just saw handing a man two dollars for a few minutes ride."

"It would have been extortion," interrupted one of the women. "I wouldn't have paid it either."

The man gave a shrug of despair and turned away. "Women will never be truly economical," he fired as a parting shot "until they can see in a big, not a little, way."

"A man's chief idea is to spend money," commented one woman. The others nodded. "But it's a shame about Molly's dress."

"She can press it."

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Harrietta D. Gould

After the fat has been in the kettle and heated to a temperature that will brown a slice of potato or a piece of bread in from forty to sixty seconds it is ready to use. The only objection to deep fat frying is its danger. The steam from a kettle boiling near the hot fat has been known to cause it to boil up and take fire. Even most skillful cooks take greatest precautions when manipulating the frying material to prevent it from spluttering on the stove and taking fire with disastrous results.

Fried food may be divided into two classes—that which requires no special protection against the absorption of fat, as cutters, potatoes and the like, and those articles which are coated with flour and egg batter or breaded like oysters, croquettes, etc.

Too many pieces of food should not be placed in the fat at a time or its temperature will be lowered, retarding the process and ruining the food. Try to keep the fat at a steady and uniform temperature as possible. A frying basket is not necessary for anything but delicate articles. When they are to be fried it is convenient if properly used. It should be lowered into the grease empty and the articles to be cooked put in it one by one. As soon as the food is browned raise the basket and let it drain very thoroughly over the vessel of fat. Then take out the food and place on a sheet of absorbent paper.

If the fat is the right temperature and the operation is done rightly no fat will enter the food that is fried as the outer pores, or the batter covering, will contract and harden, preventing this.

When the cooking is done strain the fat carefully into a crock and set aside for the next time, after it has been used a few times it will turn brown, then it cannot be used again for cutters or for potatoes but will be as nice as at first for croquettes and finally for fish balls. Of course, fat that has been used for cooking fish can not be used for any other food. All food cooks more quickly in hot fat than by any other method and must be kept hot until served.

The ordinary method of frying in a shallow pan with just enough fat to keep the article from burning or sticking to the pan is the way oftenest followed in most kitchens and it is more apt to produce greasy, unhealthy food than the method just described.

The only essentials are a hot skillet, a quick fire and a cook who will watch the process and turn the food as fast as it is seared, removing it as quickly as it is done. Butter produces a rich brown coating more quickly than any other frying material but its tendency to burn prevents its use, so we turn once more to the crock of mixed fat or drippings.

A pound of sausage will yield from a half to three-quarters of a pound of grease which should be poured out or the skillet and saved for some future use. With this excess grease extracted all sausages will taste bet-

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

There seems to be a general impression that if women served on juries, there would be more convictions in the case of women wrong-doers. A number of public men have expressed their opinion, but where they find cause for such an opinion I do not know. They surely are not well acquainted with the real inner nature of the average woman.

It is true that women on a jury would not be affected by mere physical beauty in the woman being tried; therefore they might be more just in weighing the circumstances in her case. But I do not believe—and every womanly woman and every man who has intimately known good women will bear me out—that any jury of women will ever sentence a woman, no matter how heinous her crime, to be hanged—as some juries of men have done.

After all, in spite of certain rivalries and even cattiness among the gentler sex, there is a sisterhood that men do not quite understand. Even where women will appear outwardly to condemn one another and under mine one another, often to win male censure, secretly they are linked together.

"Mrs. O'Grady and the Colonel's lady" are one under the skin when it comes to the great questions of right and wrong, the need of sympathy and a divine pity, and that forgiving and sheltering that only a woman can give to another woman.

There may be exceptions, of course, but on the whole it is doubtful if one could find any woman, no matter what estate in life, who has not some tiny streak of this fine gold in her nature. Under stress of great emotion because of a wrong or jealousy, she may kill a human being. But place her in judgment over the other woman's life and, while she may mete out even a severe punishment she will practically never give the death verdict.

Women know too well what women have to suffer.

Prick the sausages with a fork, place in a frying pan and half cover with boiling water, cook briskly without a cover until all the water is cooked away. Lower the gas or place a lid beneath the pan and continue cooking until the sausages are well browned; this will require about ten minutes after they commence to fry.

Manitowoc, Sept. 3.—W. A. Stewart of this city was a passenger on the Northwestern Limited train wrecked at Lyndhurst, early Sunday morning, with a loss of six lives, but Mr. Stewart escaped unhurt. Will O'Donnell brother of the local agent for the C. & N. W. railroad was also a passenger.

Conductor Charles Bushy who met death in the wreck was well known, having been a stage driver here 25 years ago, before taking to the railroad.

WIFE'S HEALTH RESTORED

Husband Declared Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Would Restore Her Health, And It Did.

Ashland, Ky.—"Four years ago I seemed to have everything the matter with me. I had female and kidney trouble and was so bad off I could hardly rest day or night. I doctored with all the best doctors in town and took many kinds of medicine but nothing did any good until I tried your wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband said it would restore my health and it has."

Mrs. MAY WYATT, Ashland, Ky.

There are probably hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefitted by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering.

Read What Another Woman says: Camden, N. J.—"I had female trouble and a serious displacement, and was tired and discouraged and unable to do my work. My doctors told me I never could be cured without an operation, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am cured of that affliction and have recommended it to more than one of my friends with the best results."

Mrs. ELLA JOHNSTON, 324 Vine St. If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SAVE THE BABIES

Pertinent Suggestions on the care of the little ones during the hot months.

By DR. LESLIE D. SMITH, M. D., D. O.

Readers are invited to use this service by asking questions of Dr. Smith regarding specific cases. Answers will be published in these columns in the order questions are received. Dr. Smith will not prescribe in any case, but will gladly advise the best course to pursue.

FLIES AND FILTH. Life is a constant battle against our enemies, visible and invisible against ignorance, negligence, and pure cussedness.

Among our visible enemies the fly is one of the most insidious and persistent. He is in collision with our invisible enemies (invisible to the naked eye) disease germs. While he appears to be a scavenger he is carrying with him, broadcast, all kinds of disease germs.

R. T. McCutcheon's cartoon, "A day with a fly" in the Chicago Tribune about a year ago, illustrates very forcibly the manner in which flies carry filth and spread disease. The fly starts at sunrise, has breakfast at a nearby garbage can, visits the carcass of a dog in the alley, and calls at an open privy vault nearby. Next visits a baby on a porch and walks over the nipple of his nursing bottle, crawls over the baby's lips, runs his proboscis into baby's mouth and eyes, and has luncheon at a meat market, is off to a nearby stable where he rests a while in filth, he is soon off again and hops to sample the goods at a bakery. Again he is off to the garbage cans and the filth in the alley, finally the day closes with a dinner with friends on the boulevard.

We understand the fly and his habits and could annihilate him if it were not for ignorance, negligence, and pure cussedness.

It has been proven conclusively that flies spread consumption, typhoid fever, dysentery, diarrhea, and many other infectious disease.

To do any thing successfully we must begin at the beginning. To get rid of the flies the first and foremost thing to do is to get rid of the filth, flies breed and propagate in filth.

such as manure, garbage, dead animals, and decaying filth of all kinds. Get rid of their breeding places and they will soon be exterminated.

It is said that cleanliness is next to Godliness. I would add, cleanliness is a manifestation of Godliness. One could almost say, there is no Godliness without Cleanliness.

Parents with small children should be especially interested in the campaign against flies and filth. How many of you know of, and under what conditions and surroundings, the ice cream your child eats, is made? Do you buy, or allow your children to buy, foot-stuffs that are exposed to street dust and flies?

Stay away from yourself and warn your children against open fruit and candy stands, ice cream stands and soda fountains that are open to street dust and flies, and the public drinking cup. Investigate your milk man, grocery man, your baker and butcher. Are their wares unnecessarily exposed to dust and flies? Are they cleanly, and are their shops cleanly?

Begin at home by seeing that your house is properly screened and all filth and trash removed from your premises. Chloride of lime and quick lime are good disinfectants. Either can be mixed with manure and contents of vaults to keep flies from breeding therein.

The life of your child, or your own, may depend upon whether you heed the above suggestions, or not. Begin today to clean up and to keep clean. The humblest home can be so kept, as to cleanliness, neatness, and beauty as to attract the attention of every passerby, and is at the same time a certain index as to the character and habits of those who dwell within.

LESLIE D. SMITH, M. D.

HEAD COVERED WITH WHITE PIMPLES

Went to Ear, Shoulders and Whole Body. Thick and Sticky on Head. Eruption Covered With Blood. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Ransom, Ill.—"The trouble started on our baby when he was only about two weeks old. Started like little white pimples. Looked like an old scab of blood and matter. His whole head was covered for a few months then it went to his ear, shoulders, and his whole body. It seemed to come out thick and sticky on his head, while on the other parts of his body it was more like water coming out of the skin. He would scratch until the eruption would be all covered with blood and gradually spread. The least little stir or rub would cause the sores to bleed, spread and itch. Never had a full night's sleep, restless all night.

"The sores were horrid to look at. It lasted until he was about two and a half years old. Then we saw an eczema advertisement in the paper to use Cuticura. But it did no good. Then we used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. We put the Cuticura Ointment on thick at bed time and put a tight hood on so he could not scratch the sores. Then we washed him clean with Cuticura Soap and warm water twice a day, and he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. E. F. Sulzberger, Dec. 30, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

DON'T SCOLD CROSS IRRITABLE CHILDREN

IF TONGUE IS COATED, STOMACH SOUR, BREATH FEVERISH, BOWELS CLOGGED, GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS."

Mother! look at the tongue! see if it is coated. If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad, has a stonched, diarrhoea, sore throat or is full of cold, it means the little ones' stomach, liver and bowels are filled with poisons and clogged up waste and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours the foul, decaying, constipated matter, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well and smiling child shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, safe, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

INTENSE INTEREST IN THE PRIMARIES

MINOR LOCAL CONTESTS GIVE WAY TO THE GENERAL STATE WIDE FIGHT.

DEMOCRATS THE ISSUE

Income Tax Is The Question Upon Which Question Is To Be Decided By Contesting Delegations.

Never before, since the adoption of the primary election law, has a primary aroused such widespread interest as is manifested in the outcome of the primary on Tuesday. The only time when the state wide interest was equal to what it is now was in the senatorial primary of 1908.

This time, however, it is a democratic contest instead of a struggle in the republican ranks that focuses the gaze of the people. The contest between Judge John C. Karel and A. J. Schmitz for the nomination for governor on the democratic ticket, intensified as it has been through the interference of the income tax law into the contest, is intense.

While there are contests for every state office on the democratic ticket, but one, and for town on the republican state ticket, these are given little attention by the mass of people, all eyes being centered on the Karel-Schmitz fight. Never before have the democrats of Wisconsin had the opportunity of holding the center of the stage in such a manner as they do now.

Who will win out is a question on which there is a wide difference of opinion between the supporters of each candidate. Both on the eve of the primary are confident of success. The betting boards, however, which sometimes are a good barometer of the outcome in elections, give Karel a lead of 4 to 3.

Aside from the fight on the state ticket there are several interesting congressional contests. This year the democrats are feeling so confident of carrying certain districts that in each there are two candidates for the congressional nomination. Heretofore it has been hard to get out one candidate in these districts. The great fight is being waged in the new Tenth district, which comprises the counties of Barron, St. Croix, Dunn, Eau Claire, Chippewa, Thimpeleau, Buffalo, Pepin and Pierce counties. There are four candidates for the republican nomination in the district, James A. Frear of Hudson, the present secretary of state; Speaker C. A. Ingram of Durand, Assemblyman J. C. Gilbertson of Eau Claire, progressive; and A. T. Trevisan of Galesville, conservative. The democrats have but one candidate in this district.

Two in Each Party. In the new Sixth district, comprising the counties of Marquette, Green Lake, Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Calumet and Manitowoc counties, there are two candidates for congressional honors in each party. Congressman James H. Davidson of Oshkosh and J. N. Tittensor of Oniro are the republican candidates and M. K. Reilly of Fond du Lac and Senator S. W. Randolph of Manitowoc are the democratic candidates. The fight on both sides has been unusually warm.

The republicans have another sharp contest in the new Seventh district, where Congressman J. J. Bach and A. H. Dahl, present state treasurer, are in a bitter struggle for the nomination. In the new Third district Judge Aldro Jenks of Dodgeville and Judge A. H. Long of Prairie du Chien are having a warm contest for the democratic congressional nomination. In the new First district Calvin Stewart and M. M. Lathers of Beloit are opponents for the democratic nomination for congress.

In all these districts the contests are attracting considerable attention outside of the districts, that in the Tenth district is especially being watched with keen interest.

Milwaukee Contests Sharp. In Milwaukee county, which includes the Fourth and Fifth districts, there are sharp fights for the congressional nomination on the fusion ticket. In the Fourth district Congressman W. J. Cary is a candidate for renomination. He has as an opponent on the fusion ticket Nicholas Burke. Vincent D. Hennessy is also a candidate in this district. In the Fifth district the contest has been unusually sharp with four candidates in the field—H. H. Bodenslab, J. M. Callahan, W. H. Stafford and Arthur Koehnizer.

The fight on the county ticket and legislative ticket in Milwaukee county centers on the candidates who are running on the fusion ticket. There are from two to five candidates for each office on the county ticket. The outcome, owing to the numerous candidacies, is uncertain. Each candidate is confident he will win. Much will depend on the size of the vote in the primaries. What this will be is something on which the opinions vary.

DELEGATES ATTEND CHURCH CONFERENCE

Representatives of Local United Brethren Church Leave Tomorrow For Meeting at Lime Ridge.

Rev. Charles J. Roberts, Mrs. Esther Snow, delegate, Robert Clark alternate, and Mrs. Belle Haight, will leave this city tomorrow for Lime Ridge, Wis., where they will represent the local United Brethren church at the annual state conference. Rev. Roberts preached the last sermon for the conference year on Sunday, and a unanimous invitation has been extended by his congregation for him to remain another year. The proposition will be presented to the conference. The local church will have the best report to present to the meeting since its foundation. At the beginning of the year there were 96 members and during the past year 29 new members have been received. Three have been lost by death making the membership now, 122. The pastor's salary and all expenses have been paid in full and the conference benevolences will all be paid.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

IRONING.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

IRONING is a form of domestic slavery which is a great success in taking a woman's mind off the suffrage movement. After a kind and whole-souled housewife has learned up against a wobbly-legged ironing board for the greater part of a ten-hour day, she will not have time to go out and distribute any tracts on the female ballot.

Ironing is generally preceded by a spasm of muscular enthusiasm known as wash day. This is a very giddy pastime, and can be depended upon to put a ragged edge upon a woman's deshabille and temper. Few men eat at home on wash day without taking out additional accident insurance.

Clothes are never ironed until they have been wet down with the bare hand and rolled up into a neat wad. They are then spread out on their backs and operated on with a hot flatiron. It requires six of these hot flatirons to starch a shirtwaist so that it will stand alone.

The flatiron is a deadly instrument, which is fatal whether served hot or cold. As a weapon of defense it is superior to the shotgun, as it does not maim the person of the addressee, with fine perforations. Thousands of husbands are carrying around deep, octagonal dents in their anatomy as the result of being reproached by their wives with the aid of this humble utensil.

If men would do more ironing, there would be fewer deckle-edged trimmings added to the neckbands of their shirts. There would be more work for the steam laundry to do.

The greatest invention of the age, next to the individual tooth brush, is the electric iron, which can be heated onto a 16-candle socket and heated to such a degree of passionate ardor that it will eat holes in a corduroy vest. Some hired girls use this iron to etch fancy burnt-wood designs in a new hemstitched tablecloth or decorate the dollies with chocolate blisters. If every flatiron had a water-cooling attachment, the complexion of our table linen would be improved.

FLYWHEEL OF AUTO BURSTS IN GARAGE

Men Standing About Machine Have Close Call—Flying Fragments Thrown Through Ceiling And Wall.

Four men standing about an E. M. P. automobile that was being tuned up for the Labor Day races at the Janesville Motor Company's garage had a close call late yesterday morning when the flywheel of the machine burst into fragments. One pierced the ceiling about thirty feet in front of the automobile, another went through the wall on the other side of the building, and the third struck a heavy oak oil barrel about twenty-five feet in front of it, knocking a big dent in it and nearly saving one state crop from being scouted in the machine at the time. The accident necessitated the withdrawal of the machine from the races.

CHAPTER XII.

Berny Makes a Discovery.

It was near eleven o'clock on that same Sunday morning, when Berny, wrapped and heavy-eyed, emerged from her room. She shuffled down the passage to the dining-room, sending her voice before her in a shrill summons to the Chinaman. The morning papers were scattered over the table as Dominick had left them and she gathered them up, sitting sideways in her chair and running her eye down their columns, while the servant set out her breakfast. She was still sleepy, and frequent yawns interrupted her perusal of the lines of print which interested her above all written matter. A kimono clothed her slim form and from beneath its hem her foot protruded, thrust bare into a furred slipper. She folded the paper over to bring the society column into a prominence easy of access, and, propping it up against a bowl of fruit, read as she ate her breakfast.

Toward the end of the meal she inquired of the servant at what time her husband had gone out, and received the reply that Mr. Ryan had had his breakfast and left the flat two hours earlier. There was nothing disconcerting or unusual about this, as Dominick always went for a walk on fine Sunday mornings, but her mind was far from easy and she immediately fell to wondering why he had departed so early, and the slight ferment of disquietude that was always with her came when he dropped his book, and with his long body limp in the arm-chair, his chin sunk on his breast, would sit with a brooding gaze fixed on nothing. Once, as he was dreaming this way, she said suddenly:

"What are you thinking of, Dominick? Antelope?"

He started and turned upon her a face that had reddened consciously. "Why should I think of Antelope?" he said, and she was aware that her remark had startled him and made him uncomfortable.

"For no particular reason," she answered lightly; "you just looked as if you were thinking of something a long way off."

She tried to reassure herself that it all rose from the quarrel. To believe that comforted her and gave her confidence, but it was hard to think it, for not only did her own instinct proclaim against it, but Dominick's manner and attitude were in distinct refutation of any such theory. He was not sullen, he was absent; he was not resentful, he was indifferent. And in small outward ways he tried to please her, which was not after the manner of a sore and angry man. On this very Sunday he had agreed to meet her and her family in the park at the band stand at four. She always dined with her sisters on Sunday and if the weather was fine they went to the park and listened to the music. It was nearly a year now since Dominick had joined these family parties, preferring to walk on the Presidio hills and the Cliff House beach with a friend from the bank. But on the evening before he had promised to meet them; been quite agreeable about it, Berny had thought, when her pleadings and importunities had finally extorted from him a promise to join them there.

She left the dining-room and walked up the hallway to the parlor, her head drooped, anxieties gnawing at her. The little room was flooded with sunshine, and she parted the lace curtains and, throwing up the window, leaned out. The rich, enveloping warmth surrounded her, clasped her, seemed to sink deep into her and thaw her apprehensions that were so cold at her heart. She drew in the sweet, still air, that did not stimulate but that had in it something of a crystalline youth and freshness, like the air of an untainted world, concerned with nothing but the joy of living. The scents of flowers were in it; the mellowness of the earth and its fruits. Peace was the message of this tranquil Sunday morning; peace was in the sunshine, in the sound of bells with which the air was full, in the fall of feet—light, joyous feet—on the pavement, in the voices of passers-by and the laughter, sweet and broken, of children. It was not right for any one to harbor cankerous cares on such a day. The earth was happy, abandoned to the sunshine, irresponsible, care free, rejoicing in the perfect moment. The woman felt the restoring processes that Nature, in its tireless generosity, offers to all who will take them. She felt eased of her troubles, soothed and cheered, as though the enveloping radiance that bathed her held an opiate for jangled nerves. Blinking in the brightness she leaned on the window-sill, immovable, quieted, feeling the warmth suffuse her and dissipate those alarms that half an hour earlier had been so chill and heavy.

As she dressed, the sense of well-being and confidence increased. She looked very well this morning. Since Dominick's return she had looked haggard and thin. Sometimes she had seemed to see, showing shadowy through her reflected face in the mirror, the lines and hollows of that face when time should have put a stamp on it that neither massage nor pigments would efface. A sudden moment of revelation showed her herself as an old woman, her nose pointed, her mouth a thin, tight line. This morning the glass gave her back none of these disconcerting hints. She was at her best, and as she dressed carefully and slowly, she had the satisfaction of seeing that each added article of apparel increased her good looks. When she finally put on her new hat—the one she had bought in celebration of Dominick's return—and over it tied a white and black dotted veil, she was so gratified with the picture she presented that she was reluctant to leave it and propped slowly before the glass, surveying her back and side views, and finally lifting her skirt that she might see the full effect of her lilac petticoat as it burst into sight in an oblation of pleats and frills.

Walking up the avenue she was bridle-conscious that her brilliant appearance drew its tribute of glances. Many people looked at her, and their sidelong admiration was an even more exhilarating tonic than the sunshine.

She walked with a light, elastic step, spreading perfume on the air, her progress accompanied by a rich seductive rustle. Once or twice she passed members of that exclusive world from which she had been excluded. She swept by them, languidly indifferent, her eyes looking with glacial hauteur over their heads. The sound made by her brushing silk petticoats was gratifyingly aggressive. She imparted to them a slight disdainful swing, and lifted her dress skirt defiantly higher, conscious of the impeccable amplitude of her emerging lilac frills.

The habit of dining with her own people on Sunday had been one she had never abandoned, even in the first aspiring days of her marriage. It was a sort of family reunion and at first Dominick had been a not unwilling participant in its domestic festivities. The solid bourgeois respectability of his wife's relations appealed to him. For all his advantages in money and education he was of the same class himself, and while Berny was, if not a beloved spouse, a yet endurable one, he had found the Sunday gatherings and subsequent helga to the park not entirely objectionable. For over a year now he had escaped from it, pleading the need of open air and exercise, and his sisters-in-law, who had at first protested, had grown used to his absence and accepted it as something to bear uncomplainingly.

The day was so fine that they hurried through their dinner, a hearty and lavish meal, the chef d'oeuvre of Hannah's housekeeping, and, loath to lose a moment of the sunshine, determined to walk down to Van Ness avenue and there catch an outgoing car to the park. It was the middle of the afternoon and the great thoroughfare lay still and idle in the slanting light. There was something foreign, almost tropical in its vista, in the scene that hung like a drop curtain at the limit of sight—pale blue hills dotted with ochre-colored houses—in the background of sky deep in tint, the foliage dark against it as if printed upon its intense glaring blue, in the sharp lines of palms and spiky leaves crossing stuccoed walls. The people that moved slowly along the sidewalks fitted into this high-colored exotic setting. There was no hurry or crowding among them. They progressed with an un-American deliberation, tasting the delicate sweetness of the air, rejoicing in the sky and the sun, pausing to look at the dark bushiness of a dracaena against a wash of blue, the skeleton blossom of a Century plant, the pool of thick scarlet made by a parterre of geranium.

The three sisters—Hannah and Pearl leading, Berny and Hazel walking behind with Josh—fared buoyantly down the street. As they passed, they commented on the houses and their inmates. They had plenty of stories of the dwellers in those solemn palaces, many of whom were people whose humble beginnings they knew by heart, and whose rapid rise had been watched almost awe-stricken by an admiring and envious community. As the Ryan house loomed into view their chatter ceased and their eyes, serious with staring attention, were fixed on the mansion which had so stubbornly closed its doors on one of them. Sensations of varying degrees of animosity stirred in each of them, except the child, still too young to be tainted by the corroding sense of worldly injustice. She skipped along sideways, her warm, soft hand clasped in her Aunt Hannah's decently-gloved palm. Some wave or vibration of the intense feelings of her elders passed to her, and as they drew nearer the house she, too, began to grow grave, and her skipping quieted down into a stare. "That's Uncle Dominick's house, isn't it?" she said to Hannah.

Hannah nodded. By far the most amiable and wide-minded of the sisters, she could not rise above the sense of ranking indignation that she felt against the Ryans for their treatment of Berny.

"That's the biggest house in San Francisco," said Pearl over her shoulder to her parents. "Ain't it, Popper?"

"I guess it is," answered Josh, giving his head a confirmatory wag, "and even if it ain't, it's big enough, the Lord knows!"

"I can't see what a private family wants with all that room," said Hannah with a condemnatory air. "There must be whole scoots of rooms on that upper floor that nobody lives in."

"Don't you fret. They're all occupied," said Berny. "Each one of them has their own particular sots. Corrie has three rooms all of her own, and even the housekeeper has a private bath!"

"And there's twelve indoor servants," said Hazel. "They want a lot of space for them. Twelve servants, just think of it!"

Assassins Worked Boldly.

An aged widow, who kept a small hotel in Paris near St. Lazare prison, was found murdered the other morning in a room taken the day before by two men who have since disappeared. The old woman was strangled by the assassins, when she went into the room to put sheets on the bed. No noise was heard by the other tenants in the hotel. Their crime accomplished, the assassins visited madame's private room and then made good their escape with about $200 in gold and banknotes, a gold watch and a few other articles of jewelry. The body of the woman was found under the mattress, the hands and feet being bound with cords.

Folly of Worry.

Worry is overwork of the most disastrous kind; it means to drive the mental machinery at an unreasonable and dangerous rate. Worry gives the brain no rest, but rather keeps the delicate cells in constant and continuous action. Work is wear; worry is tear.

stirred again and made her forget the society column and let her Spanish omelet grow cold.

There was something strange about Dominick since he had come back, something that intrigued her, that she could not satisfactorily explain. She assured herself that he was still angry, but in the deeper places of her understanding the voice that whispers the truth and will not be gainsaid told her it was not that. Neither was it exactly antagonism. In a way he had been studiously kind and polite to her, a sort of consciously-guarded politeness, such as one might practice to a guest with whom one was intimate without being friendly. She tried to explain to herself just what this change was, and when it came to putting the matter in words she could not find the right ones. It was a coldness, a coldness that was not harsh and did not express itself in actions or phrases. It was deeper; it was exhaled from the inner places of his being.

Sometimes as she talked to him she would meet his eyes fixed on her with a deep, vacant glance, which she suddenly realized was unseeing and unfeeling. In the evening as he sat reading in the cramped confines of the den she surreptitiously watched him and saw that a moment often

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Sept. 3, 1872.—An infuriated bull broke loose from those in charge of him, on Jackson street today and would have done somebody an injury but for the intervention of a rifle ball, which cut short his stoutheaded career. The people who live on that street all pulled in their front steps and went up stairs.

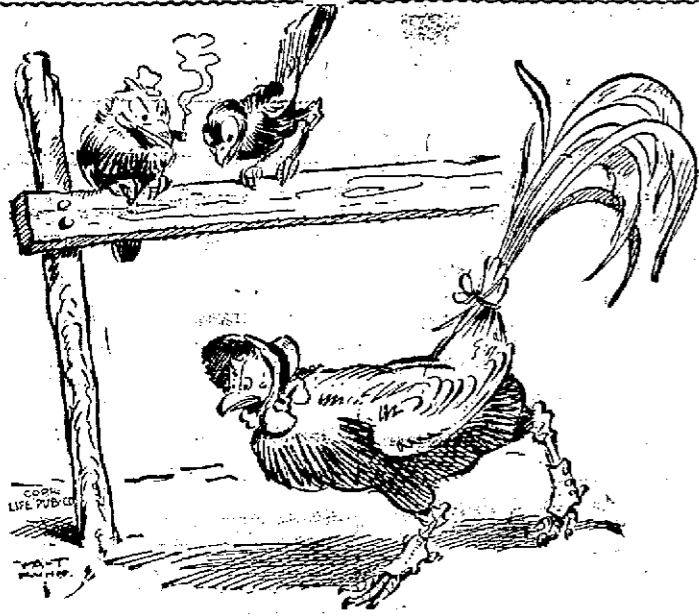

Special trains will be run on the C. & N. W. road on Thursday next, between Clinton Junction and Clear Lake and between Jefferson and Clear Lake. Possibly the trains may extend their runs to Harvard and Watertown. They will reach Milton Junction at 10:20 a. m. The starting time from the different stations will be given as soon as ascertained.

A fire at Milton Junction about nine o'clock last evening, destroyed the furniture store of L. P. Babcock, the meat shop of R. Smith and the wagon and blacksmith shop of Charles Wead. Loss $2900, insurance $1300. Supposed to be the worst fire incendiary. One of our steamers started for the scene, but on reaching the depot received word that no water could be obtained and returned.

The Sabbath school concert, for which Prof. Woollett and Wilson have been so long preparing the children of this city, will begin at Lappin's hall tonight. A crowded house will probably greet them.

Ex-Mayor Anson Rogers and wife returned today, from a trip in the east. Mr. C. Smith returned from the east yesterday and will have his new stock in his new store sometime next week.

"My—but doesn't she look silly!"

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

It is a favorable day and general good fortune will follow you through the year. A letter will cause you some annoyance and you should take especial care of your health.

Those born today will be generous and good hearted and will have the brilliant qualities which make for success. Their drawback will be a lack of the plodding earnestness necessary to bring out their best.

BY WALT MASON

I wish that some one had invented the phonograph in early years—way back before Ulysses, tented, in grouchy gloom shed briny tears. How sweet 't would be to hear the voices of great men in ages past; great men, for whom the world rejoices, and shall, no doubt, while time doth last. How fine to hear the brave, Leander triumphant shout when reaching land! To hear the mighty Alexander give orders to his regiment band! Could we but hear the speech of Brutus or Anthony or Caesar's clay, or hear Rienzi scorn and hoot us for being slaves!

THE PHONOGRAPH 'most every day! To hear the tones of great men thunder down the ages, through a horn,—ah, that Would be the greatest wonder the world has known since it was born! Invention didn't think to bless us with anything so strange and sweet. And yet, perhaps, it might distress us, and give our idols wooden feet. If we could hear the ancient geezer, it might increase our store of woes; for who could stand a hisping Caesar, a David singing through his nose? Perhaps Horatius squeaked in terror when driving the Etruscans back; when Spartacus addressed his men or gave battle cry, his voice might crack. We may not say the ancient cackles, but still not for such vague delights; perhaps King Arthur dropped his atches when talking to his unwashed knights.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO AID IN THE MATTER

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted.

All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.

Stamp in a Letter.

When sending a stamp in a letter, instead of moistening one corner and sticking it to the paper, moisten a small spot in the center of the stamp and then affix it to your letter. The removal of a small part of the adhesive substance from the center in no way impairs the usefulness of the stamp; whereas it is often torn if the corner is fastened.
